Lok Sabha adjourned amid Opposition protests on SIR

Winter session sees protests over SIR; key bill cleared amid uproar

NEW DELHI

Lok Sabha proceedings were adjourned on Monday, the first day of the Winter Session, as opposition parties staged protests demanding a discussion on the controversial Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls. The opposition highlighted concerns over rising workloads on booth level officers (BLOs), citing multiple suicides allegedly linked to SIR duties.

The House experienced two earlier adjournments during the Question Hour in the morning and again in the afternoon before being adjourned for the day at around 2.20 PM. Several opposition members entered the Well, shouting slogans and pressing for a debate on the SIR exercise initiated by the Election Commission.

Despite the disruption, Parliament managed to pass a bill amending the Goods and Services Tax (GST) law for Manipur. Introduced by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, the legislation replaces a presidential ordinance and empowers Parliament to enact the law while the state remains under President's Rule.

During the 12-minute Zero Hour, Sitharaman introduced three additional bills and tabled supplementary demands for grants for the 2025-26 fiscal year. Among them were the Central Excise (Amendment) Bill, 2025, aimed at levying excise duty on tobacco products, and the Health Security and National Security Cess Bill, 2025, which imposes a new cess on pan masala manufacturing.

The passage of the Manipur GST Bill, despite the chaos in the House, underscores Parliament's ability to push through essential legislation even amid intense political contention. The first day of the Winter Session reflected both the opposition's insistence on accountability regarding SIR and the government's determination to advance its legislative agenda.

Parliament Winter Session

RS Chairman urges members to follow parliamentary discourse

Rajya Sabha Chairman C.P. Radhakrishnan, in his maiden speech, urged members to respect the Constitution, adhere to rules, and observe the 'Lakshman Rekha' of parliamentary conduct, ensuring individual rights are protected while maintaining decorum and responsibilities within established norms of the Upper House.

Kharge's mention of Dhankhar's exit sparks protest

While congratulating newly elected RS Chairman CP Radhakrishnan, Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge sparked protests from treasury benches after he recalled former Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar's "unexpected and sudden exit" from office and noted that the House did not get a chance to bid him farewell.

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju criticised the remark, calling it inappropriate for the "solemn occasion." "Why did the honourable Leader of Opposition refer to a case which was not necessary to be raised at this moment..." Rijiju said. Welcoming the Chairman on behalf of the Opposition parties, Kharge said the Congress "staunchly stands by Constitutional values and time-honoured Parliamentary traditions... be assured of our cooperation in the conduct of proceedings."

Rijiju assures govt is open to discussion on SIR

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju informed the Rajya Sabha that the government is "open to discussing any issue," and the Opposition's demand is currently under consideration. He clarified that it has "not been rejected" and a response will be provided "soon," referring to his earlier remarks at the Business Advisory Committee that he would reply by Sunday 9 pm. Rijiju requested patience, saying, "There are other matters on the agenda that can be addressed in the meantime. Don't assume the government is unwilling to discuss any issue...Please don't impose timelines." Trinamool Congress floor leader Derek O'Brien shot back saying "Problem is not the timeline but trust deficit."

CM Siddaramaiah invited to DCM's residence today

BENGALURU

Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has been formally invited for breakfast at Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar's residence today, the latter's office had confirmed on Monday. The invite follows a previous breakfast meeting at Siddaramaiah's home, aimed at quelling a brewing leadership tussle within the state Congress.

Addressing the media, Siddaramaiah said he had been told to come but had not received a formal call yet. "Maybe they might call. If I am called, I will go," he stated, hinting at cautious optimism ahead of the meeting.

The two leaders have publicly assured unity, following directions from the Congress high command. "From now, there won't be any confusion," Siddaramaiah had said, emphasizing that both he and Shivakumar would adhere to the party leadership's guidance.

Observers see the upcoming breakfast as another step toward reinforcing truce and coordination between the state's top Congress leaders. The gesture is expected to ease tensions and send a message of consolidated leadership ahead of crucial political developments in Karnataka.

The high command's intervention underscores its intent to pause internal disputes while maintaining party stability in the state. Both leaders' engagement signals a move toward collaboration and reaffirmation of party discipline.

'CM and I work like brothers': DCM reiterates unity

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar once again stressed party unity, insisting that he and Chief Minister Siddaramaiah function "like brothers" and that there are no factions within the Congress. Speaking to the media after offering floral tributes to Kengal Hanumanthaiah on his birth anniversary at Vidhana Soudha, Shivakumar addressed the growing speculation around internal divisions and the recent breakfast meeting.

Shivakumar said the meeting was purely a matter between him and the Chief Minister, adding that attempts to portray them as leaders of rival camps were baseless. "There are no groups in our party. We are born alone and we die alone — so why would we need factions? You in the media keep showing Siddaramaiah's group and DKShi's group. But we do not believe in any such divisions," he clarified.

'7 to 8 leaders competing to be CM'

BJP state president B.Y. Vijayendra said that the race for the chief minister's post within the ruling Congress has intensified, with seven to eight senior MLAs and ministers reportedly vying for the position. Speaking to the media, he criticised the ongoing power struggle, claiming it has weakened the administration. Vijayendra alleged that since the Siddaramaiah government came to power, it has shown negligence toward farmers.

"Seven to eight senior legislators and ministers in the ruling party are competing to somehow become the CM".

Delhi court sends Al Falah University Founder to 14 day JC

NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Monday, December 1, 2025, sent Al Falah University founder Jawad Ahmed Siddiqui to 14-day judicial custody in connection with a terror-linked money laundering case linked to the November 10 Red Fort blast. Siddiqui, who had earlier spent 13 days in Enforcement Directorate (ED) custody from November 19, was produced before Additional Sessions Judge Sheetal Chaudhary Pradhan and remanded until December 15.

During the hearing, Siddiqui's counsel requested access to prescribed medication and spectacles, which the court allowed. ED officials submitted his medical prescriptions, directing jail authorities to ensure he continues treatment.

The ED has alleged that Siddiqui and Al Falah University misrepresented UGC recognition and NAAC accreditation, diverted student fees and public funds for personal use, and amassed assets disproportionate to declared finances. Searches across 19 Delhi-NCR locations yielded approximately ₹48 lakh in cash. Investigations into the university are ongoing as part of the Red Fort blast probe, which claimed 15 lives.

PRAJWAL APPEALS FOR BAIL, LAWYER QUESTIONS EVIDENCE

BENGALURU

Former MP Prajwal Revanna, sentenced to life imprisonment in a rape case involving a domestic worker, has approached the Karnataka High Court challenging the verdict and seeking bail. The case was heard on December 1, 2025, before a division bench comprising Justices K.S. Mudgal and T. Venkatesh Naik. Senior advocate Siddharth Luthra, representing Prajwal, presented strong arguments, highlighting inconsistencies and raising doubts over the evidence, urging the court to grant bail.

Luthra questioned why no complaint was filed by the victim for three years despite alleged incidents in 2019 and 2021, and why multiple criminal cases were suddenly registered. He also challenged the prosecution's claims regarding Prajwal's mobile phone, arguing that no proper notice under Section 91 was issued, and no attempt was made to obtain information from the mobile company using the IMEI number.

Additionally, Luthra raised doubts over the FSL (Forensic Science Laboratory) evidence, suggesting possible political motives in filing the case and inconsistencies in the handling of the victim's clothes and DNA samples. He contended that some key officials involved in collecting evidence had passed away, questioning the admissibility and reliability of the forensic findings.

The High Court, after hearing these arguments, adjourned the proceedings to Wednesday, leaving the public and legal observers eager to see how the arguments and counterarguments will unfold.

Govt School in Turmoil: Sudden Transfer of Six Teachers Sparks Protests and Public Outrage

BRAHMAVAR

A sudden and unexplained transfer of six teachers from the Kumragodu Government School has plunged the institution into chaos, sparking widespread protests and outrage among students, parents, and the local community. The transfer orders, issued on the same day, have left the school without teachers for major subjects like Mathematics, Science, English, and Social Science, disrupting academic activities and putting the future of students in jeopardy.

The affected students, who are currently preparing for their examinations, took to the streets in protest, demanding the immediate return of their teachers. "We need our teachers to study. Nothing else. The government must send them back at once," pleaded a class 10 student during the protest. Parents and student groups suspect that pressure from a private school management may be behind the decision, alleging that the steady improvement in the government school's academic performance and increasing student enrollment had led to dissatisfaction among some private school owners.

> Parents and student groups suspect that pressure from a private school management may be behind the decision, alleging that the increasing student enrollment had led to dissatisfaction among some private school owners

The parents staged a protest near the school's main entrance, raising slogans such as 'Cancel the transfer orders' and 'Stop political interference'. "This is a blow to our children's future. Such decisions are an attack on education," said a protesting parent.

The absence of a clear explanation from officials has further intensified public suspicion, with many calling for the government to intervene and reverse the decision.

As the situation escalated, officials from the education department visited the school and conducted an inspection. However, without a concrete assurance of corrective action, the anxiety among parents and students continues to rise. Local organisations, community leaders, and teachers' associations have demanded the immediate withdrawal of the transfer order and the reinstatement of the teachers at the same school.

The incident has highlighted concerns over political pressure in the education system and the widening gap between private and government schools. With the transfer being executed in the middle of the academic year, parents fear long-term consequences for their children's learning. The community is urging the government and education authorities to act promptly and resolve the issue without delay, ensuring that such disruptions do not recur in the future.

The victim's body was found wrapped in a cloth and abandoned inside their house near an estate in Manjeshwaram, Kasaragod.

Mass Wedding at Kateel Temple Draws Thousands

KATEEL

In a grand celebration, 48 couples tied the knot in a simple and traditional ceremony at the revered Sri Durgaparameshwari Temple in Kateel on November 30. The mass wedding, which began at 8:30 am, was attended by over 25,000 devotees, with around 10,000 people partaking in the annaprasaada meal.

The temple authorities had made elaborate arrangements to ensure the smooth conduct of the ceremony, setting up four dedicated counters with priests and separate staff for registration. The efficient arrangements helped manage the high turnout, making it a memorable day for the couples.

However, the festivities did lead to some traffic congestion in Kateel town and near the Rathabeedi bus stand, owing to wedding processions and an influx of tourist buses from other districts. Authorities had arranged parking spaces in nearby college grounds and open fields, but traffic remained disrupted for some time.

Despite the challenges, the mass wedding was a grand success, with the couples exchanging vows in the presence of their loved ones and the deity, Sri Durgaparameshwari. The temple authorities and local administration deserve credit for making the event a memorable one.

Forest Department's Laxity Hinders Afforestation Efforts in Sirsi Taluk

KARWAR

The Forest Department's negligence in implementing the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (NREGA) has hindered afforestation efforts and deprived farmers of economic benefits in Sirsi taluk.

Despite government directives to prioritize afforestation and rural development, the Forest Department has shown a lack of enthusiasm in implementing the scheme. The taluk panchayat has expressed concern over the slow progress, with only 10% of the target achieved in the Sirsi and Janmane forest ranges.

"Achieving the target is crucial to provide employment opportunities to farmers and improve their economic status," said Channabasappa Havanagi, Executive Officer of the taluk panchayat. "The Forest Department needs to take concrete steps to implement the scheme effectively."

The NREGA scheme aims to promote afforestation, soil conservation, and water harvesting, among other activities. However, the Forest Department's inaction has resulted in a significant gap in achieving the targets.

"The department has been given the freedom to undertake various activities, including roadside plantations, community plantations, and development of pastures," said an official from the NREGA project division. "It's disappointing to see the lack of progress despite repeated reminders."

The taluk panchayat has taken cognizance of the issue and is likely to take up the matter with higher authorities to ensure effective implementation of the scheme.

Kankanady's Hi-Tech Market: A Tale of Neglect and Disarray

The lack of proper drainage and sanitation facilities has made the area a breeding ground for diseases.

MANGALURU

The much-awaited Hi-Tech Market in Kankanady, Mangaluru, has become a symbol of neglect and disarray. Despite being under construction for over five years, the market remains incomplete, leaving traders and locals frustrated.

The area surrounding the market is plagued by poor infrastructure, including narrow roads, inadequate parking, and overflowing garbage. Temporary sheds have been set up for vegetable and flower vendors, but the conditions are far from ideal. The lack of proper drainage and sanitation facilities has made the area a breeding ground for diseases.

Locals complain about the constant traffic congestion and the difficulty in navigating the narrow roads. The situation is exacerbated by the absence of a bus stand, leaving passengers to wait on the roadside. The nearby Radha Medics road is in a deplorable state, making it challenging for vehicles to pass through.

The construction of the Hi-Tech Market was touted as a major development project, but it has been marred by delays and neglect. Traders who were relocated to temporary sheds are still waiting for a permanent solution. The area's residents are demanding that the authorities take immediate action to address the infrastructure issues and complete the market project.

Civic officials claim that the project is nearing completion and that the market will be operational soon. They also announced that the Bendoorwell road construction project has received funding, and work is expected to begin soon. However, locals are skeptical and are demanding concrete action to address the pressing issues in the area.

Street Waste Threatens Cattle in City: Contaminated Fodder Reason for Deaths?

Despite measures such as door-to-door waste collection and CCTV cameras, street littering remains a significant problem

MANGALURU

The growing problem of street waste in Mangaluru has taken a worrying turn, with cattle being the latest victims. A recent case of seven cows dying near Kelarai has highlighted the issue, with veterinary tests confirming that the animals died after consuming contaminated food.

The cows belonged to dairy farmer Joseph Stany Prakash of Kelarai, and the presence of harmful substances in the fodder was found to be the cause of death. Veterinarians warn that rotten or contaminated food can trigger the growth of Clostridia bacteria, releasing toxins that can be fatal to cattle. Spoiled food can also cause acidosis, damaging the protozoa essential for digestion, resulting in bloating and fatal complications.

The city's streets, once known for their cleanliness, are now witnessing an increase in garbage piles, posing a threat to public health and the environment. Despite measures such as door-to-door waste collection and CCTV cameras, street littering remains a significant problem.

Cattle owners are being warned to be vigilant, as the risk of their animals consuming plastic waste and toxic grass is high. Hybrid Napier grass, commonly grown along the coast, should be fed to cattle only after 75 days of growth, as it contains hydrocyanic acid that can be harmful to cattle.

Dr. Arun Kumar, Deputy Director, Department of Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Services, advises farmers to keep their cattle away from garbage-filled areas and choose safe locations for grazing. The issue has raised concerns among cattle owners and animal welfare activists, who are calling for urgent action to address the problem of street waste in Mangaluru.

MANGALURU

In a major breakthrough, police have arrested a 50-year-old inter-state fraudster, Pugal Vasan, alias Arun, who posed as a businessman and duped a local gold trader of ₹31 lakh. The accused was apprehended in Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, and 240 grams of 24-carat gold biscuits worth ₹31,04,000 were recovered from him.

The incident dates back to November 22, when Vasan, using a fake identity, approached Swarna Jewellers in Urwa Store, Chilimbi, and ordered 24 pieces of 10-gram gold biscuits, claiming he needed them as gifts for his office guests. He asked the staff to deliver the gold to his office at Ajant Business Centre in Bejai-Kaikamba, promising to transfer the payment via RTGS.

However, after receiving the gold, Vasan made an excuse and fled the spot, leaving the jeweller without payment. A complaint was filed, and the Urwa Police registered a case. Using technical investigation, the police tracked the accused to Coimbatore and arrested him on November 26.

Further investigation revealed that Vasan had committed similar frauds in Mumbai, Hyderabad, Chittoor, and Tirupati, and had multiple cases registered against him. The police team, led by Assistant Commissioner of Police Pratap Singh Thorat, successfully traced and arrested the accused, bringing relief to the duped gold trader.

Delayed 'Bhavans' in Dakshina Kannada: A Saga of Broken Promises

MANGALURU

The construction of several 'Bhavans' (community centers) in Dakshina Kannada district has been stuck in limbo for decades, despite receiving government funding and undergoing foundation stone-laying ceremonies. The projects, including Abbakka Bhavan, Bairi Bhavan, Konkani Bhavan, and Haj Bhavan, have been plagued by administrative delays and land acquisition issues.

The Abbakka Bhavan project, launched in 2011-12 with an initial funding of ₹2 crore, has seen multiple revisions and additions, but remains incomplete. The Bairi Bhavan project, initiated in 2022, has faced opposition from locals and is yet to take off. The Konkani Bhavan project, which received ₹3 crore in funding, is partially complete, but requires additional funds to finish the remaining work.

The Haj Bhavan project, proposed at a cost of ₹20 crore, has been approved by the state cabinet, but its implementation is still uncertain. The Rangamandira project, aimed at providing a cultural hub for the district, has been pending for over four decades, with the government revising the project cost from ₹25 crore to ₹9.9 crore.

The delay in completing these projects has disappointed the local community, which has been demanding their swift implementation. The projects' stagnation has also raised questions about the government's commitment to fulfilling its promises and addressing the infrastructure needs of the district.

K'taka moved fully to digital e-stamp system: Min

'The govt is phasing out traditional e-stamps and replacing them with e-stamps to prevent misuse and fake challans'

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has officially ended the old e-stamp system and moved completely to a digital e-stamp process, said Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda.

Gowda, announcing the change at a press conference held at Vikas Soudha, explained that the new system has been in effect since October and is designed to make stamp-related work simpler, safer, and fully online.

The Minister said the government is phasing out traditional e-stamps and replacing them with digital e-stamps to prevent misuse and fake challans. Through the Karnataka Stamp Amendment Bill, 2025, digital signatures now have full legal recognition. This strengthens the system by allowing online fee payment, secure electronic signatures, and Aadhaar-based authentication for all transactions.

Digital e-stamps can also be used for unregistered agreements. Earlier, people had to visit shops to purchase printed stamp paper, often depending on middlemen. Now, citizens can buy stamp paper from home using an online portal. Once an agreement is created, it will be digitally stored, making it easy to retrieve anytime. The Minister noted that lost papers were a major problem earlier, but the digital system keeps permanent records.

The new digital agreements will include a unique number and QR code for verification. The fee for digital stamping will remain unchanged. To complete an agreement, Aadhaar details must be provided, and the process will be authenticated through an OTP system. Both parties involved in the agreement must use their Aadhaar details to complete the digital bond.

Krishna Byre Gowda said the system will make transactions safer, faster, and more transparent. The government aims to remove middlemen, prevent fraud, and make all stamping processes fully digital for public convenience.

GBA chief pushes faster e-Khata processing

BENGALURU

Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao has instructed officials to quickly clear all pending e-Khata applications across the five city corporations.

He issued these directions during a virtual meeting on e-Khata services, B-Khata to A-Khata conversion, and property tax matters.

Rao said a dedicated helpline (9480683035) has been set up for all e-Khata-related complaints. He advised officials to respond to every complaint within the given time limit. He also stressed that these complaints must be monitored separately to ensure faster solutions. Rejected applications, he said, should be reviewed carefully to identify mistakes and take corrective steps.

He highlighted the need to process new e-Khata applications and conversion requests without delay. According to him, clearing these applications quickly will help improve the corporation's revenue.

Special Commissioner Munish Moudgil shared that the e-Khata helpline receives nearly 1,000 calls daily. All issues raised through the helpline are tracked and resolved on priority. He reminded officials that applications should not be rejected without solid reasons. Corporation-wise reports will be prepared to understand rejection patterns and to speed up pending work.

Moudgil also said that commercial properties of major tax defaulters within GBA limits are being sealed to recover overdue taxes. Revision cases are also being examined to collect pending property tax amounts.

North City Corporation Commissioner Pommala Sunil Kumar noted that e-Khata applications in the North zone are being cleared quickly. Officials who rejected applications without proper justification have already been issued notices.

'Job seekers' stir exposes govt apathy'

BENGALURU

Tensions rose in Dharwad as job aspirants protested against the Karnataka government's prolonged delay in government recruitment. Opposition leader R Ashoka criticized the state Congress administration for prioritizing political games over governance, saying administrative machinery has suffered amid leadership changes.

The protest in Dharwad turned violent, prompting Chief Minister Siddaramaiah to issue an order for immediate recruitment and call for the release of arrested examinees.

Ashoka highlighted that promises of job guarantees remain unfulfilled, asking, "Where is Swami's job guarantee? Where is the hiring luck?" He posted a video condemning the government for neglecting citizens' employment concerns.

Ashoka also criticized IT-BT Minister Mallikarjun Kharge for ignoring technological innovation, claiming his focus remains on political intrigues, including controversial matters unrelated to his portfolio. This apathy, he argued, has caused a 40 percent decline in start-up investments, weakening Karnataka's position as a hub for innovation.

He also instructed officials to involve students from nursing, medical, and paramedical colleges as volunteers to support the drive.

Mobile vaccination teams will be deployed in crowded locations such as bus stands, markets, metro and railway stations, malls, large parks, slums, and other high-density areas. These teams will help reach families who may otherwise miss the vaccination booths.

COOLING DOWN

Winter effect: Bengaluru shivers in December drizzles

BENGALURU

Bengaluru is set for cooler days ahead as the city experiences a notable dip in temperatures, with light to moderate rain expected through the first week of December. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) attributed the change to Cyclone Ditwah over the Bay of Bengal.

The IMD forecast generally cloudy skies until Tuesday, accompanied by mist in some areas during early mornings. Maximum temperatures are expected to hover around 21–22°C, nearly six degrees below the seasonal average of 26.9°C. Nighttime lows are predicted at 18°C, slightly above the 15-year December average of 16.4°C. On Sunday, Bengaluru recorded a maximum of 21.6°C and a minimum of 18.4°C, both below normal.

Historically, Bengaluru's lowest December temperature over the last 15 years was 12.8°C on December 24, 2011, and the city's all-time low remains 7.8°C recorded on January 13, 1884

Light rain with sustained winds of 30–40 kmph is likely on Monday, with similar weather conditions persisting for the rest of the week. While Cyclone Ditwah caused severe devastation in Sri Lanka, it weakened into a depression near India without making landfall.

Since November 27, the city's temperatures have dropped 2–6 degrees below normal due to cyclonic conditions in the Bay of Bengal. Historically, Bengaluru's lowest December temperature over the last 15 years was 12.8°C on December 24, 2011, and the city's all-time low remains 7.8°C recorded on January 13, 1884.

Residents are advised to carry umbrellas and wear warm clothing, as the unusual chill and intermittent rains are likely to continue, affecting daily life and travel. The weather shift offers a welcome break from Bengaluru's usual warmth but calls for caution during wet and misty mornings.

'Bengaluru water tariffs to increase every April'

BENGALURU

Bengaluru residents should expect an annual hike in water tariffs, the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) announced. Chairman Ram Prasat Manohar said that starting next April, water rates will be revised each year in line with rising prices.

Last April, the board had raised water rates by 1 paise per litre, surprising many residents. The new policy formalizes yearly adjustments to ensure the board meets its operational costs. Currently, BWSSB requires Rs 200 crore for operations but collects only Rs 120 crore, creating a shortfall that will now be addressed through tariff increases.

Manohar added that rising prices of construction materials such as steel, cement, and iron also contribute to the need for higher rates. The Administrative Reform Department has framed rules to implement the annual revision, ensuring that water tariffs remain aligned with operational and infrastructure costs.

Fair price shop licenses cannot be transferred: HC reiterates

The Karnataka High Court has reaffirmed that fair price shop licences are non-transferable, dismissing a petition seeking authorisation transfer

BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has once again made it clear that the licence or authorisation granted to operate a fair price shop under the Public Distribution System (PDS) cannot be transferred from one person to another under any circumstances.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj delivered the ruling while dismissing a petition filed by Lakshmamma, who had approached the court seeking to quash an endorsement issued by authorities rejecting her request for transfer of the fair price shop authorisation. She had sought directions to consider her representation and allow the licence to be transferred in her favour.

The court examined Rule 13 of the Karnataka Essential Commodities (Public Distribution System) Control Order, 1992, which governs the functioning of fair price shops across the state. Citing the explicit provisions of the rule, the judge noted that the law categorically prohibits both the transfer of authorisation by an existing licence holder and the operation of a shop by any transferee on behalf of the authorised dealer.

The bench stated: "A perusal of Rule 13 and the Proviso would indicate that no authorized dealer shall assign or transfer his authorization to any other person and no person shall carry on business as a transferee or otherwise on behalf of such authorized dealer." On this basis, the court held that Lakshmamma's request had no legal backing. Since there is a clear statutory bar on such transfers, the petitioner had no vested right to seek one, and therefore, the court could not issue a mandamus directing authorities to consider her request.

With these observations, the High Court dismissed the petition, reinforcing its earlier stance that fair price shop authorisations are non-transferable and must remain solely with the person to whom they were originally granted.

Kolar police enforce compulsory helmet rule

Kolar police have made helmets mandatory for two-wheeler riders and pillion passengers from December 1, conducting fines, vehicle seizures, and awareness drives

From December 1, the Kolar police have made it mandatory for both two-wheeler riders and pillion riders to wear helmets, launching a strict enforcement drive across the district. Officers were seen on roads fining riders without helmets and impounding vehicles, while those caught without helmets were provided one and allowed to proceed after paying the fine.

In a bid to encourage compliance, the police also distributed roses to riders wearing helmets, appreciating their responsible behavior. Kolar SP Nikhil B emphasized that the initiative aims to reduce bike accidents and promote road safety, urging the public to cooperate and avoid fines.

The police have been conducting awareness campaigns at bus stands, schools, and colleges, highlighting the importance of helmet use. Initial responses have been encouraging, with around 75 percent of riders complying on the first day.

Statistics show 284 fatalities in bike accidents in 2024, with 238 deaths reported so far in 2025, underscoring the urgency of the measure. Authorities have also warned that the helmet rule will be strictly enforced for pillion riders. The drive reflects Kolar police's commitment to road safety, aiming to instill responsible riding habits and ensure compliance with traffic regulations across the district.

Mid-day meal workers stage protest demanding wage hike

MANGALURU

Mid-day meal workers in Mangaluru launched an indefinite dharna on Monday in front of the Mini Vidhana Soudha, demanding that the Union Government increase their wages and implement a fair minimum wage. The protest was organised under the banner of CITU, with workers raising slogans condemning what they described as the Centre's inhuman treatment of employees who play a crucial role in school nutrition programmes.

Inaugurating the dharna, senior trade union leader J. Balakrishna Shetty said that mid-day meal workers, who are already struggling with extremely low wages and harsh working conditions, cannot survive on the current honorarium of ₹4,500. He criticised the government for showing disrespect under the name of "honorarium" and urged workers to intensify their fight for dignity and fair pay.

CITU Dakshina Kannada district general secretary Sunil Kumar Bajal noted that the mid-day meal scheme was introduced in 2001, but since the Narendra Modi government came to power in 2014, the Centre has gradually reduced its financial contribution. Although official orders describe the work as four hours per day, workers across India put in nearly eight hours daily, he said, adding that successive governments have remained silent on their plight.

District president of the Mid-Day Meal Workers' Association, Padmavathi Shetty, demanded that the upcoming budget include the implementation of minimum wages, the scheme must not be privatised under any circumstances, and workers should be recognised as permanent government employees with all statutory benefits as recommended by the ILC.

Speakers Jayanta Nayak and Vasudeva Uchchil also addressed the gathering. The protest was led by CITU leaders Yogesh Jappinamogaru, Sundar Kumpala, and several women workers from the mid-day meal workforce.

'I'am unaware of who blocked my participation during PM's visit'

UDUPI

Former minister and BJP leader Pramod Madhwaraj expressed uncertainty over who was responsible for denying his participation in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent programme at Udupi Sri Krishna Matha. Speaking at a press conference at the Udupi district BJP office, he said he had hoped to be present at the inauguration of the golden kavacha he had donated to the Kanaka Kindi of the temple.

Madhwaraj said that as a devotee, he had offered the gold armour to the shrine, and the fact that the Prime Minister inaugurated it brought him immense satisfaction. "I expected that I too would get an opportunity to take part. My Aadhaar copy and photograph were collected four times. But my name was missing from the final list sent by the PMO, which I came to know through the SP on the night of November 27," he said. He added that he carries no disappointment or resentment over the matter.

He stated that he has no idea who prevented his inclusion and does not wish to speculate or accuse anyone without reason. "I do not know who kept me out or who tried to stop me from attending. If someone has indeed done this, it is their political misstep, not mine," he remarked.

BJP Udupi district president Kuthyar Naveen Shetty and leaders Dinkar Shetty Herg, Divakar Shetty, Reshma Uday Shetty, Srinidhi Hegde, and Srikant Nayak were also present.

A case has been registered, and investigation is ongoing, though tracing the sender is challenging due to dark web usage.

Treasury Benches Object Kharge Mentioning Dhankhar Exit

Rajya Sabha saw tension as Kharge referred to Dhankhar's exit

A brief uproar occurred in the Rajya Sabha on Monday when Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge mentioned the "unexpected and sudden exit" of former Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar. The disruption happened while the House welcomed his successor, CP Radhakrishnan, who took charge as the new Chairman.

Speaking on behalf of opposition parties, Kharge welcomed Radhakrishnan and recalled Prime Minister Narendra Modi's statement at the start of the Winter Session. He emphasized that the Congress stands by constitutional values and parliamentary traditions. Kharge added that fair and impartial conduct in Parliament is essential for the credibility of the Chairman's office.

Referring to Dhankhar's resignation on July 21 due to health issues, Kharge said, "I am constrained to refer to your predecessor's sudden exit, which is unprecedented in parliamentary history." He also expressed regret that the House did not get a chance to bid Dhankhar farewell. Kharge highlighted Radhakrishnan's ties to former Congress MP CK Kuppuswamy and advised the new Chairman to maintain balance between both sides.

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju criticized Kharge for raising Dhankhar's resignation during the ceremonial occasion. He called the remarks unnecessary and highlighted past motions against Dhankhar filed by the opposition. Leader of the House JP Nadda urged members to maintain decorum and not let election defeats influence debates.

Prime Minister Modi said Parliament is for delivering results, not political drama. He noted the opposition's frustration after Bihar and Haryana election losses and reminded members that defeat should not lead to disruption, nor victory to arrogance.

Jaishankar Highlights India's Role in BWC Implementation

NEW DELHI

EAM Jaishankar underscores India's commitment to strengthen global biosecurity at BWC 50th anniversary conference

External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar on Monday addressed the inaugural session of the conference marking "50 Years of the Biological Weapons Convention (BWC): Strengthening Biosecurity for the Global South." Speaking to experts and representatives from over 80 countries, he emphasised India's commitment to full and effective implementation of the Convention and its leadership role in global biosecurity.

Jaishankar highlighted the importance of modernising the BWC and the crucial role of the Global South in shaping its future. He outlined India's record in non-proliferation of sensitive and dual-use goods and technologies and cited the "Vaccine Maitri" initiative during the COVID-19 pandemic as an example of responsible biosecurity leadership. He also proposed a National Implementation Framework covering the identification of high-risk agents, oversight of dual-use research, domestic reporting, incident management, and continuous training.

The External Affairs Minister noted that the BWC currently lacks institutional structures such as a compliance system, permanent technical body, or a mechanism to track new scientific developments. He stressed the need for stronger compliance measures, global cooperation, and building capacity in the Global South to prepare for emerging biological threats, which move quickly, cross borders, and overwhelm systems.

In a post on X, Jaishankar emphasised that the BWC should act as a guardrail between innovation and misuse in life sciences amid a challenging international security environment. He urged the Global South to take ownership of the next 50 years of the Convention, noting that the region stands to gain the most from stronger biosecurity and has the greatest potential to contribute.

The Ministry of External Affairs said the two-day international conference at Sushma Swaraj Bhawan will include participation from regional and international organisations, further reinforcing India's commitment to disarmament, non-proliferation, and global biosecurity.

Annual India-Maldives exercise EKUVERIN will focus on counter-terror operations

14th India-Maldives Exercise EKUVERIN to Begin Today

KERALA

The 14th edition of the annual bilateral exercise EKUVERIN between India and the Maldives is scheduled to be held in Thiruvananthapuram from December 2 to 15, the Indian Army announced. The exercise will involve the Indian Army and the Maldives National Defence Forces, focusing on enhancing interoperability while conducting counterinsurgency and counter-terrorism operations in semi-urban, jungle, and coastal terrains.

A post on X highlighted that the exercise will integrate niche technology to improve coordination and efficiency between the two forces. Participants will also share best practices, reflecting India and Maldives' shared commitment to peace, security, and stability in the region. EKUVERIN further aims to deepen defence cooperation, camaraderie, and mutual trust between both armies.

"Ekuverin," meaning "Friends," is an annual bilateral exercise conducted alternately in India and the Maldives. It is one of the three major joint exercises, alongside the bilateral "Ekatha" and the trilateral "Dosti," which includes Sri Lanka. Dates and arrangements for these exercises are decided in mutual consultations.

India and Maldives share long-standing ethnic, linguistic, cultural, religious, and commercial ties. India was among the first countries to recognize Maldives' independence in 1965 and to establish diplomatic relations. The strategic importance of India's role in Maldives is widely acknowledged, with India seen as a key security provider in the region.

Both nations play a critical role in maintaining safety and security in the Indian Ocean Region (IOR). This partnership aligns with India's "Neighbourhood First" policy and the SAGAR (Security and Growth for All in the Region) vision, aimed at promoting stability, security, and prosperity in the IOR. The EKUVERIN exercise underlines the strong defence and strategic ties between India and Maldives.

Delhi High Court Seeks Centre's Reply on Apple Plea

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Monday sought responses from the Centre and the Competition Commission of India (CCI) to Apple Inc.'s petition challenging the CCI's directive to submit several years of audited financial statements. Apple also contested an amendment to the Competition Act, 2002, which permits penalties based on a company's global turnover.

A Bench of Chief Justice Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya and Justice Tushar Rao Gedela asked the authorities to reply within a week. Apple argued that penalties should be tied only to the turnover of the relevant product in India, noting that a 10 percent penalty on its global turnover for 2022–24 could reach USD 38 billion.

The Court questioned the basis for using global turnover, while CCI counsel Balbir Singh said the rule ensures accountability for companies without an Indian base.

BJP Seeks CBI Probe into Sabarimala Temple Gold Loss

KOCHI

BJP Kerala state president Rajeev Chandrasekhar has moved the Kerala High Court, seeking a CBI investigation into the alleged loss of gold from the Sabarimala temple. In his petition, he argued that a central agency was essential for a thorough inquiry, as the gold was reportedly distributed across multiple states and involved individuals outside Kerala.

Chandrasekhar alleged that the Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) was influenced by political appointees of the ruling party and that external individuals with power benefited from the gold distribution. He raised concerns over the effectiveness of the Special Investigation Team (SIT), set up by the High Court, saying the SIT might be unable to investigate members of the Board who were appointed by the government.

The BJP leader also cited media reports claiming that the son of a former TDB member, an IPS officer, was allegedly trying to obstruct the probe. He requested a detailed audit of TDB assets alongside the CBI investigation.

A Division Bench of Justices Raja Vijayaraghavan and K V Jayakumar heard the matter on Monday. The court noted certain defects in the petition and will review it again next week.

Meanwhile, former TDB president A Padmakumar, arrested by the SIT, approached the Kollam Vigilance Court seeking bail. He claimed the decision to hand over gold-clad temple items to the prime accused, Unnikrishnan Potty, was collective, yet only he was booked. His bail plea will be heard Tuesday.

The SIT is investigating two cases concerning the loss of gold from the temple's 'dwarapalakas' and the sanctum door frame. Six people have been arrested, and the High Court will review the probe's progress on Wednesday.

Supreme Court Questions Farmers' Role in Delhi Pollution Crisis

AMRITSAR

The Supreme Court on Monday questioned whether stubble burning by farmers is the sole cause of Delhi's worsening air pollution. A Bench of Chief Justice of India Surya Kant and Justice Joymalya Bagchi sought a report on measures taken to curb other major pollutants affecting air quality. CJI Kant noted that it is "easy to blame farmers" who are not represented before the Court and pointed out that stubble burning has occurred for years without causing the drastic decline now seen.

The Court stressed that Delhi-NCR's pollution cannot be viewed as a routine winter issue and directed authorities to review the situation twice a month to identify both short-term and long-term solutions. Highlighting unplanned urban expansion and rising population, CJI Kant said cities were not built to handle such density or vehicle numbers. The Bench called for scientific analysis to pinpoint primary pollution sources and urged immediate, actionable measures rather than policies that exist only on paper.

NC's Ramzan Highlights Limited J&K Govt Powers

NEW DELHI

Chowdry Mohammed Ramzan, newly elected National Conference (NC) Rajya Sabha member, on Monday highlighted the limited powers of Jammu and Kashmir's elected government, saying authority primarily rests with Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha. Ramzan made the remarks in his maiden speech after taking oath as a member of the Upper House, along with NC leaders Sajjad Ahmed Kichloo and party treasurer Gurwinder Singh Oberoi, also known as Shammi. Oberoi is the first Sikh from Kashmir to be elected to the Rajya Sabha.

The three NC leaders, along with BJP's Sat Sharma, were elected last month in the first Rajya Sabha election in Jammu and Kashmir since its bifurcation in 2019, filling seats that had been vacant since 2021.

During his speech, amid interruptions, Ramzan noted that the people had given a two-thirds majority to NC, paving the way for a popular government led by Chief Minister Omar Abdullah. Expressing dissatisfaction over the limited powers of the elected government, he said, "All the power is in the hands of LG. Orders flow from there."

While felicitating Vice President CP Radhakrishnan as Rajya Sabha Chairman, Ramzan raised concerns about J&K governance, stressing its strategic importance. Despite the Chairman's intervention, he highlighted the powerless elected government. His maiden speech earned praise from CM Omar Abdullah and NC chief Farooq Abdullah. The new MPs took oaths in Kashmiri, Urdu, and Punjabi, pledging committed service to the people.

Udhayanidhi Alleges Sengottaiyan Joined TVK Following Shah

ERODE

Tamil Nadu Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin took a veiled dig at expelled AIADMK leader K A Sengottaiyan, claiming he joined actor Vijay-led Tamizhaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) on the "advice" of Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

Speaking at Pudhiya Dravida Kazhagam's 6th State Conference here, Udhayanidhi also criticized AIADMK leaders, alleging they had abandoned Dravidian ideology and were functioning as "slaves" of the BJP in Delhi. Without naming Sengottaiyan directly, he said a senior former AIADMK minister from Erode traveled to Delhi, met Shah, and returned to join another party following Shah's guidance.

"Even former AIADMK ministers today join parties only after taking permission from the BJP," Udhayanidhi said, suggesting that the party's decisions were increasingly controlled by Shah. He alleged that AIADMK chief Edappadi K Palaniswami and other leaders often queue up outside Shah's residence, competing for the "best slave" title.

Udhayanidhi claimed that in Tamil Nadu, for many parties including the AIADMK, the head office is now Shah's house in Delhi. He also referred to media reports showing Palaniswami changing several cars to meet Shah a few months ago.

Sengottaiyan recently resigned as a legislator, having represented Gobichettipalayam in Erode. His exit from the AIADMK and subsequent move to TVK has added to the perception of BJP influence over regional parties.

The DMK leader's remarks reflect ongoing tensions between AIADMK factions and the growing role of national leaders in shaping state-level politics.

VOTER LIST

EC Rejects West Bengal Voter Deletion Claims

NEW DELHI

The Election Commission (EC) on Monday rejected allegations of "large scale voter deletion" in West Bengal, terming them false and politically motivated. The EC told the Supreme Court that the claims are being used as a "narrative" in media to gain political mileage.

The statement came in response to a plea filed by TMC MP Dola Sen regarding the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls. The poll body clarified that voter list revision is a constitutional, regular, and necessary process.

Meanwhile, in WB, a section of Booth Level Officers (BLOs) involved in the SIR process held a massive protest outside the Chief Electoral Officer's (CEO) office on Monday. They complained about excessive workload during the enumeration exercise, leading authorities to increase police presence at the site.

During the demonstration, protesters raised slogans and tried to breach police barricades. The protest coincided with a visit by a BJP delegation led by Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, who met election officials at the CEO's office.

The BJP, alleging irregularities in the ongoing SIR process, demanded an audit of all 1.25 crore entries made between November 26 and 28. Adhikari claimed that political consultancy agency I-PAC was interfering in data entry and accused Kolkata Police of acting in a partisan manner. The BJP also sought more time for BLOs to complete the revision work.

The EC, however, maintained that the voter list update is conducted regularly across states and dismissed the allegations as an attempt to further vested political interests.

Centre Defends Mining Exemptions amid Tamil Nadu Opposition

New Delhi

The Centre defended its decision to exempt critical, strategic, and atomic mineral mining projects from public consultation, saying it will not affect environmental, social, health, or livelihood concerns. This came after Tamil Nadu sent a letter on September 12 urging the withdrawal of the September 8 office memorandum granting the exemption. Union Minister of State for Environment Kirti Vardhan Singh provided the reply in Lok Sabha on Monday, stressing the exemptions are necessary for strategic development.

New Delhi

The civil aviation ministry said on Monday that all probable causes of the Air India plane crash in Ahmedabad in June are being investigated. The preliminary report by the Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB) contains factual information based on available evidence. The Boeing 787-8 aircraft operating flight AI171 crashed soon after takeoff on June 12, killing 260 people, including passengers and crew, with only one survivor. Some concerns have been raised about the probe in certain quarters.

BJP urges Tamil Nadu to join PM Modi's Tamil initiative

BJP asks Tamil Nadu to actively support learning Tamil language

CHENNAI

The Tamil Nadu unit of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) on Monday urged Chief Minister M.K. Stalin to support Prime Minister Narendra Modi's nationwide initiative to promote Tamil learning. The party also called for Tamil Nadu's active participation in the fourth Kashi Tamil Sangamam starting December 2 in Varanasi.

BJP State Spokesperson A.N.S. Prasad said PM Modi's vision encourages every citizen of India to learn Tamil and should be embraced by people in Tamil Nadu. He referred to the latest edition of PM Modi's monthly radio programme, 'Mann Ki Baat', where the Prime Minister invited citizens from across India to attend the Sangamam, describing it as a "beautiful confluence" of Tamil, one of the world's oldest languages, and Kashi, one of the oldest cities.

The core theme of the festival, 'Tamil Karkkalam' (Let us learn Tamil), highlights language learning and cultural pride. Prasad urged the Tamil Nadu government to send a team of Tamil scholars and experts to the event. He also requested initiatives within the state to make Tamil learning accessible to non-Tamil speaking residents.

Prasad further mentioned other points from 'Mann Ki Baat', including the role of youth in nation-building, India's space achievements, and Gen-Z innovators who developed drones capable of navigating Mars-like environments under ISRO competitions.

He proposed that the Tamil Nadu government work with the Union Government to set up a state-of-the-art Drone Technology Park. Such a facility, he said, would promote youth talent and strengthen the state's contribution to India's technological progress.

"The BJP is ready to cooperate with the Tamil Nadu government for progress and technological advancement," Prasad added.

Enforcement Directorate seizes 19 Goa properties in money-laundering case

ED Attaches Properties Worth over Rs 1,268 Crore in Goa

PANAJI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has provisionally attached 19 immovable properties in prime locations across Goa, including Anjuna, Assagaon, and Ucassaim, valued at approximately Rs 1,268.63 crore. The move, carried out on November 27 under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, targets a group allegedly involved in large-scale land fraud.

According to the ED, the properties were illegally acquired by a group led by Shivshankar Mayekar using forged and fabricated land documents, including allotment certificates, demarcation certificates, historical sale deeds, and gift deeds. Earlier, on September 9 and 10, the agency had seized and frozen bank accounts and assets worth Rs 12.85 crore in connection with the same investigation.

The money-laundering probe follows an FIR filed by Goa Police against Yeshwant Sawant and others for allegedly defrauding the Communidade of Anjuna related to Survey No. 496/1-A. The accused reportedly used fake documents to secure fraudulent mutation of land, selling portions to third parties to generate proceeds of crime.

The ED identified Mayekar as the main conspirator. He allegedly acquired multiple land parcels across Goa in the names of relatives and associates and was arrested on October 1; he remains in judicial custody. The investigation has also uncovered four additional FIRs involving illegal land acquisitions in Anjuna and Assagaon, with several other parcels suspected to have been obtained fraudulently.

The inquiry revealed a systematic modus operandi: identifying undervalued land, fabricating title documents, creating fake certificates, mutating properties in frontmen's names, and selling the land for criminal proceeds. Information about these properties is being shared with enforcement agencies under PMLA coordination. The ED said further investigation is ongoing.

Abhishek Banerjee Open To Contest from Any Seat

DIAMOND HARBOUR

Senior TMC leader Abhishek Banerjee on Monday dismissed speculation about contesting from Nandigram, saying he will contest from "any seat" the party assigns, including Darjeeling. Speaking in Maheshtala, he termed the buzz a "manufactured flutter" and stressed party discipline. His remarks followed Union Minister Sukanta Majumdar's claim that Banerjee was preparing to enter Nandigram. Suvendu Adhikari responded that "nobody in Nandigram will vote for him," while the TMC cited its strong grassroots support. Nandigram remains politically symbolic after Mamata Banerjee's narrow 2021 loss. Banerjee reiterated that he has no personal preference and that candidate decisions rest solely with the party.

MP Minister Introduces Municipal Amendment Bill

Madhya Pradesh Minister presents Municipal Amendment Bill in Assembly; debate scheduled for tomorrow amid opposition protests over recent tragedies and administrative issues

BHOPAL

Madhya Pradesh Urban Affairs and Housing Minister Kailash Vijayvargiya on Monday introduced the 'Municipal (Amendment) Bill' in the state Assembly. The Winter session of the Assembly began on the same day, with the Bill's discussion scheduled for Tuesday, according to Assembly Speaker Narendra Tomar.

Vijayvargiya, who also serves as the state Parliamentary Affairs Minister, provided a brief introduction to the Bill in the House. The legislation seeks to restore direct elections for the posts of Chairperson of Nagar Palika and Nagar Parishad. The Madhya Pradesh Cabinet, chaired by Chief Minister Mohan Yadav, had approved the proposal last week.

Historically, from 1999 to 2014, elections for these municipal posts were held directly by voters. However, in 2022, these elections were conducted through an indirect system, where elected ward councillors cast votes. The election of Mayors, however, has continued to follow the direct voting system.

The Assembly session began with opposition protests highlighting two major incidents. Members of the Congress party raised concerns over the Coldrif cough syrup tragedy that claimed more than 25 children in Chhindwara and other districts. They also questioned the ruling BJP on the M.Y. Hospital case, where two children had died a few months ago.

Some Congress MLAs, including Jaivardhan Singh, alleged that the Assembly secretariat alerted the government about questions submitted in the House. Responding to the allegation, Minister Vijayvargiya remarked that Congress MLAs need training for framing questions and urged them to keep questions concise for proper answers.

The session promises lively discussions as the Municipal Amendment Bill and opposition concerns are expected to dominate the House proceedings on Tuesday.

Gujarat Completes Major Voter Roll Revision Exercise

AHMEDABAD

Gujarat is nearing the final stages of its 2025 special intensive electoral roll revision, with the enumeration phase continuing until December 11. Under the guidance of the Election Commission of India and Chief Electoral Officer Hareet Shukla, the CEO office, in coordination with district election officers, has accelerated the process to meet deadlines.

Over 5 crore registered voters have already received their enumeration forms, with most of the state's 33 districts achieving full distribution. Officials said the remaining districts will soon meet the target. The returned forms are being rapidly digitised, showing remarkable progress on the ground.

Two Assembly constituencies, Dhanera in Banaskantha and Limkheda in Dahod, have completed 100 per cent digitisation of received forms, a rare achievement. Among districts, Dang leads with 93.14 per cent digitisation, followed by Gir Somnath (88.91 per cent), Banaskantha (88.42 per cent), Sabarkantha (88.32 per cent), and Morbi (88 per cent). Other top performers include Mahisagar, Chhota Udepur, Panchmahal, Patan, and Surendranagar, all above 86 per cent.

The exercise has revealed important updates in the voter database. Around 15.58 lakh deceased individuals were still listed, over 4 lakh voters were absent at registered addresses, and 21.86 lakh people had permanently migrated. Additionally, more than 2.68 lakh duplicate entries were detected.

The CEO office praised Gujarat's BLOs for their field efforts in driving the revision efficiently and advised them to contact local election offices for operational support. The initiative marks one of the most extensive voter roll clean-up drives in the state, ensuring accuracy and integrity ahead of upcoming elections.

'Sardar Patel Would Have Ensured Complete Kashmir Integration'

SRINAGAR

Jammu and Kashmir Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha on Monday said that Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel would have ensured complete and irreversible integration of the Union Territory if he had been in charge of its affairs in 1947.

The L-G participated in the "Sardar150 Unity March (Padyatra)" at Vadodara in Gujarat. The national march, which started from Sardar Patel's family home in Karamsad, will cover nearly 190 km over 11 days and conclude at the Statue of Unity on December 6.

Addressing the event on the theme "Kashmir, Hyderabad and Sardar," Sinha said that although Patel did not directly handle Jammu and Kashmir, he ensured it remained an integral part of India. "History of Jammu and Kashmir would have been different if Sardar Patel had been given full responsibility for its integration," he added.

The L-G highlighted Patel's opposition to the then Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's approach and his resistance to taking the issue to the United Nations. He recalled Patel's public statements advocating complete integration and decisive action to protect the region from Pakistan.

Sinha emphasized that Patel's vision of unity, equality, and social justice continues to shape India's growth. "As an architect of modern India, Patel symbolizes self-confidence, self-respect, and bravery," he said.

He also noted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi is fulfilling Patel's vision through initiatives like the abrogation of Article 370, 'One Nation, One Tax', 'One Nation, One Ration Card', 'PM Gati Shakti', and the Kashi-Tamil Sangamam.

The L-G urged the youth to uphold the pillars of unity, which he identified as shared values, shared identity, and a common purpose, driving India's progress and development.

TOILET AWARENESS DRIVE

Gujarat Launches Drive to Improve Village Toilets

AHMEDABAD

Gujarat marked World Toilet Day with a strong push for hygiene and toilet maintenance across villages. Under the 'Hamara Shauchalay, Hamara Bhavishya' campaign of the Swachh Bharat Mission–Gramin, community and household toilets were repaired, cleaned, and refurbished, while awareness activities highlighted proper sanitation practices.

Villages carried out deep cleaning, repainted toilets, and fixed broken doors, taps, tiles, and drainage systems. Officials also ensured surrounding areas were kept clean. Vibrant wall art was used to spread messages on hygiene, handwashing, and responsible toilet use.

Districts including Morbi, Valsad, Ahmedabad, and Surendranagar saw active participation from gram panchayats, sanitation committees, and local volunteers. Several villages organised cleanliness pledges, competitions, and awareness drives to educate residents on toilet upkeep and overall community hygiene.

Officials noted that World Toilet Day is a reminder of collective responsibility. "Access to toilets is vital, but maintaining them is equally important," they said, emphasising that campaigns like this renew communities' commitment to sanitation.

India has made significant progress in toilet construction over the past decade, largely due to the Swachh Bharat Mission, which aimed to end open defecation through building household and community toilets and ensuring rural and urban sanitation access.

Alongside construction, government initiatives focus on behaviour change, waste management, and upgrading sanitation infrastructure. Awareness campaigns, panchayat funding, and initiatives like 'Hamara Shauchalay, Hamara Bhavishya' continue to strengthen hygiene habits, promote sustainable toilet use, and support India's long-term goals of universal sanitation and improved public health.

Telangana CM Requests HUDCO Loans at Lower Rates

HYDERABAD

Telangana Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy on Monday urged HUDCO Chairman Sanjay Kulshrestha to provide loans at lower interest rates for key state development projects. He sought affordable financing for Bharat Future City, the Hyderabad Metro Rail extension, the Regional Ring Road, and Radial Roads. Reddy also briefed the chairman on proposed greenfield highways connecting Bharat Future City to Chennai via Bangalore and Amaravati, a highway to Bandar Port, and a potential bullet train project.

The Chief Minister raised concerns about restructuring past loans and the high interest rates on existing borrowings. Kulshrestha responded positively, assuring efforts to address high-interest payments. He also noted that loans for Indiramma housing had been sanctioned and agreed to release funds for constructing an additional 10 lakh houses. Reddy invited him to the Telangana Rising 2047 Global Summit, stressing that competitive loan rates are crucial for accelerating the state's infrastructure and development agenda.

Rubio Calls Ongoing Ukraine Peace Efforts Delicate And Complex

Ukraine and US continue sensitive talks seeking stable long-term peace guarantees

KYIV

Talks between Ukraine and the United States continued this week as both sides worked on creating "reliable security guarantees" for Kyiv under a peace plan supported by Washington. US Secretary of State Marco Rubio met a Ukrainian team led by Rustem Umerov, head of Ukraine's National Security and Defence Council. Rubio said Sunday's discussions in Florida were "productive", but warned that "more work" was still needed. He described the process as "delicate" and "complicated".

The meeting also included Witkoff and Jared Kushner, son-in-law of US President Donald Trump. Witkoff is expected to travel to Moscow on Monday for further talks with Russian officials. Rubio said the US remained "realistic" about the challenges ahead but "optimistic" because both sides shared a vision that the goal was not only to stop the war but also to secure a safer and more prosperous future for Ukraine.

Rubio said the discussions involved "many moving parts" and stressed that Russia must be part of the process. He noted the US had been in contact with Russian officials and understood their views. The talks followed a Geneva meeting where Trump's earlier peace plan was revised. Umerov said Ukraine's priorities were protecting national interests and securing real, long-term peace. The meeting also set the stage for Witkoff's talks with President Putin on issues including Donbas and Crimea.

Khaleda Zia Remains Critical As Doctors Intensify Treatment

Former Bangladesh PM Khaleda Zia faces critical health issues

DHAKA

Former Bangladesh prime minister Khaleda Zia is "extremely unwell" and has been placed on ventilation as her condition continues to worsen, senior Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) leaders said on Monday. The 80-year-old BNP chairperson was admitted to a private hospital on November 23 after developing a chest infection that affected both her lungs and heart. Doctors shifted her to the coronary care unit four days later when several health problems became more serious.

BNP Vice-Chairman Advocate Ahmed Aazam Khan told reporters that Zia's health had further deteriorated and that she had been moved to ventilation support. He described her condition as "very critical" and urged people across the country to pray for her recovery. BNP Secretary General Mirza Fakhrul Islam Alamgir also confirmed that her condition remained unstable despite intensive care from both local and foreign medical experts.

Alamgir said specialists from Bangladesh and abroad were jointly supervising her treatment, adding that doctors were "trying their best" under difficult circumstances. BNP Senior Joint Secretary General Ruhul Kabir Rizvi said Zia's condition had shown no improvement.

Zia, the widow of former Bangladesh president Ziaur Rahman, has long suffered from multiple health issues, including liver and kidney complications, diabetes, arthritis, and eye-related illnesses. Earlier this year, she returned from London on May 6 after four months of medical treatment.

Her only surviving son, Tarique Rahman, BNP's acting chairman, has lived in London since 2008. Her younger son, Arafat Rahman, died of cardiac arrest in 2025. BNP has recently regained political prominence following a student-led uprising that toppled Sheikh Hasina's government in August 2024.

Pak Failed To Build Friendship With Afghan: Cleric

KABUL

Senior Pakistani cleric and Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam (JUI-F) chief Fazlur Rehman has sharply criticised Islamabad's long-standing policy towards Afghanistan, saying it has "completely failed" as tensions between the two neighbours continue to grow. Speaking at a gathering in Mardan, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, he said Pakistan had not been able to win Afghanistan's trust in 78 years and only relied on conflict instead of dialogue. He was quoted by Afghan outlet Amu TV as saying, "In 78 years, Pakistan has not been able to make Afghanistan its friend. You only know war. You cannot solve this problem." Rehman urged the Pakistani government to review its regional strategy and work towards peace and mutual trust.

Hasina, Relatives Get Jail Terms In Major B'desh Land Scam

DHAKA

A Bangladesh court on Monday sentenced former prime minister Sheikh Hasina to five years in jail in a major land scam case. Her niece, British MP Tulip Siddiq, received a two-year jail term. The verdict was delivered by Judge Md Rabiul Alam of Dhaka's Special Judge's Court-4.

The judge also sentenced Hasina's sister, Sheikh Rehana, to seven years in jail. Fourteen other accused were given five-year jail terms. All 17 convicted individuals were fined Tk 1 lakh each. If they fail to pay, they must spend six more months in jail.

This is the fourth corruption verdict against the 78-year-old former leader. Siddiq, a British-Bangladeshi Labour Party MP since 2015, is Rehana's daughter. An arrest warrant was issued for her in April as part of the investigation into corruption during Hasina's rule.

The Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) filed the land scam case on January 13, accusing Hasina, Rehana, Siddiq and others of unlawfully taking plots during Hasina's tenure. A charge sheet against 17 people was submitted on March 10.

The ACC filed six separate cases between January 12 and 14 over irregularities in the Purbachal New Town project. The ACC said Hasina, in collusion with senior Rajuk officials, illegally secured six large plots in the diplomatic zone for herself and close family members, even though they did not qualify under the rules.

Charges in related cases were framed on July 31. Last week, Hasina received 21 years of rigorous imprisonment in three other Purbachal plot cases. She has been in India since August 5 last year after protests toppled her government.

Afghan Journos Say Pak No Longer Safe Refuge

KABUL

The Afghanistan Media Support Organisation (AMSO) has strongly criticised Pakistan for increasing arrests, harassment and forced deportations of Afghan journalists, saying the country has become a place of "uncertainty and fear" instead of a safe refuge. The concern follows the arrest of Afghan journalist Hamoon Khamosh and his family in Islamabad, with AMSO warning he could be deported back to Afghanistan, where journalists face severe restrictions and intimidation.

AMSO said that in the past month alone, six Afghan journalists have been arrested and deported by Pakistani authorities. These journalists had earlier fled Afghanistan due to censorship, political pressure and direct security threats, hoping Pakistan would be a temporary safe haven. However, AMSO noted that Afghan journalists now live in conditions where their safety and dignity are at serious risk. Press freedom groups have urged Pakistan to stop deportations and restore visa services, stressing that forced returns could put journalists' lives in grave danger. Reports indicate that Afghan refugees in Pakistan are facing increasing pressure from police amid rising tensions between Islamabad and the Taliban administration.

Residents Decry Mafia Destroying Indus Riverine Wildlife, Grazing Zones

DERA GHAZI KHAN

Local communities in Dera Ghazi Khan have raised serious concerns over what they describe as "mafia-led" destruction of the Indus River's natural riverine zones. They allege that brick kiln operators are clearing large stretches of natural vegetation for fuel, endangering wildlife habitats and traditional grazing areas. Residents say that during summer, the River Indus can expand up to 15–20 kilometres, allowing thick wild grasses, shrubs, reeds and native plants to flourish naturally across its floodplains.

India Leads Major Rescue Effort In Sri Lanka

COLOMBO

India has launched a large and urgent rescue operation in Sri Lanka after Cyclone Ditwah caused widespread destruction, severe floods, and heavy loss of life. Under Operation Sagar Bandhu, teams from the National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) and the Indian Air Force (IAF) have been working across several affected districts to save lives, move people to safety, and provide medical help.

MEA Spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal shared regular updates, saying NDRF teams carried out rescue work in Kochikade, Puttalam, and Badulla. He added that IAF Mi-17 helicopters evacuated 34 people, including children, from Kotmale to Colombo. The helicopters also delivered medical supplies and food packets to stranded families.

External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar said another IAF aircraft landed in Colombo on Sunday carrying disaster response materials. The IAF confirmed that a C-17 aircraft transported more than 80 NDRF personnel, 8 tonnes of equipment, and 21 tonnes of relief material from Pune to Sri Lanka. This included medicines, emergency kits, food items, and essential rescue gear.

India's NDRF and Air Force are carrying out large rescue, relief, and medical missions across Sri Lanka after Cyclone Ditwah caused massive destruction and heavy loss of life.

Officials said Operation Sagar Bandhu highlights India's strong support for Sri Lanka during a major crisis. The rescue missions have been conducted quickly and efficiently, despite difficult weather and ground conditions. The coordinated efforts of NDRF and the IAF show India's readiness to help its neighbour during emergencies.

According to Sri Lanka's Disaster Management Centre, at least 334 people have died and 370 remain missing after the cyclone, making it one of the worst disasters the island nation has faced in recent years.

India has said it will continue assisting Sri Lanka until the situation stabilises and all affected communities receive the help they need.

Sri Lankan Minister Thanks India For Strong Disaster Support

BADULLA: Sri Lanka's Deputy Tourism Minister Ruwan Ranasinghe on Monday thanked India and the NDRF for their help after Cyclone Ditwah caused severe damage. The Indian High Commission said NDRF teams, including landslide experts, are working closely with local authorities in Badulla to recover victims and provide essential aid. India also sent 12 tonnes of relief materials to Trincomalee through INS Sukanya. IAF MI-17 helicopters continue rescuing stranded people and delivering urgent supplies. Cyclone Ditwah, now weakening, has left 355 dead and 366 missing across Sri Lanka.

Suicide Blast Kills Policeman, Injures Three In Khyber Pakhtunkhwa

ISLAMABAD

A police officer was killed and three others were injured on Monday in a suicide blast targeting a security vehicle in Lakki Marwat district of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa, Pakistan. Officials said the attack took place when a Tajori police mobile came under assault. The deceased officer was identified as head constable Alauddin.

According to Asif Hassan, spokesperson for the Lakki Marwat District Police Officer, the suicide bomber died on the spot while his accomplice managed to escape. A search operation has been launched to track down the suspect.

Pakistan has seen a sharp rise in terror attacks over the past year, especially in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan, after the Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan (TTP) ended its ceasefire with the government in November 2022.

Recent incidents highlight the worsening situation. On November 24, armed attackers targeted a security forces vehicle in the Bannu district, injuring a soldier who was rushed to a military hospital. Security forces later carried out a joint operation and claimed to have killed and injured several militants.

Earlier, on November 8, a police officer named Azad Khan was injured when unidentified assailants fired at a checkpost in Khar tehsil's Tangi area. Police said the shot came from an unknown location.

MONGOLIA HIV UPDATE

Mongolia Reports Rising HIV Cases This Year

ULAN BATOR

Mongolia now has 424 people living with HIV or AIDS, according to the National Center for Communicable Diseases (NCCD). In a statement released for World AIDS Day on December 1, the NCCD said 36 new HIV cases were recorded in the first eleven months of 2025. Most patients are between 20 and 44 years old, and 99.7 per cent of infections were caused by sexual transmission.

Mongolia recorded its first HIV case in 1992. Since then, 71 people have died of AIDS in the country, which has a population of 3.5 million. Health officials say awareness and early testing are important to control the spread.

According to the World Health Organization, HIV weakens the body by attacking white blood cells. This makes it easier for a person to suffer from diseases such as tuberculosis, infections, and certain cancers. AIDS is the most advanced stage of HIV infection.

HIV spreads through body fluids like blood, semen, vaginal fluids, and breast milk. It can also pass from an infected mother to her baby during pregnancy or childbirth. However, HIV does not spread through hugging, kissing, shaking hands, or sharing food and water.

Health experts say HIV can be prevented and managed with antiretroviral therapy (ART). Without treatment, HIV may progress to AIDS after several years. Many people do not know they are infected because early symptoms may be mild or similar to the flu, such as fever, headache, rash, or sore throat. Regular testing and safe practices remain key to prevention.

FM ON LIC'S INDEPENDENT INVESTMENT DECISIONS

LIC invests in top NSE and BSE companies, with ₹4,30,776.97 cr in Nifty 50 equities

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told Parliament on Monday that the Finance Ministry does not issue any advice or instructions to the Life Insurance Corpora-tion of India (LIC) regarding how it should invest its funds. In her written reply to the Lok Sabha, she said that LIC makes all investment decisions on its own after following strict checks, risk reviews, and legal requirements.

She explained that LIC's investment practices are guided by the Insurance Act, 1938, along with regulations issued by IRDAI, the RBI, and SEBI. These rules en-sure that LIC applies strong financial discipline and maintains the highest stand-ards of responsibility while managing policyholders' money.

According to the minister, LIC mostly invests in the top 500 companies listed on the NSE and BSE. A large share of its funds is placed in the biggest and most stable companies among these. As of September 30, 2025, LIC's investment in Nifty 50 companies stood at Rs 4,30,776.97 crore, making up 45.85 per cent of its total equity investment.

All investment activities of LIC are closely checked by multiple layers of scrutiny. These include concurrent auditors, statutory auditors, system auditors, IFC audi-tors, and the corporation's internal vigilance mechanisms. The IRDAI also con-ducts periodic inspections to ensure that LIC continues to follow all required standards. The minister stressed that there is no direct government oversight on LIC's investment choices.

Sitharaman also shared company-wise details of LIC's holdings. LIC's investment in Adani Group companies totals Rs 38,658.85 crore, including stakes in ACC Ltd and Ambuja Cements. Its largest private-sector holding is in Reliance Industries at Rs 40,901.38 crore, followed by Infosys, TCS, HDFC Bank, and Hindustan Uni-lever. LIC also invests heavily in major public sector companies such as SBI, Coal India, ONGC, PNB, and GIC.

HSBC predicts RBI to reduce repo rate

The report warns growth may slow in March 2026 as fiscal support eases and exports decline, prompting HSBC to expect RBI to start easing policy rates December

NEW DELHI

HSBC Global Investment Research has said that the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is likely to reduce the policy repo rate by 25 basis points during the Monetary Poli-cy Committee (MPC) meeting on December 5. If this happens, the repo rate will fall to 5.25 per cent. The report explains that inflation is expected to stay well be-low the RBI's target for some time, giving room for a rate cut.

According to HSBC, India's economic growth has remained strong so far. Gov-ernment spending was front-loaded, and GST rate cuts helped boost retail de-mand. However, the November Flash Manufacturing PMI reading of 56.6 showed that the GST-led push may now be slowing, with new orders appearing weaker.

The report notes that while growth looks strong at the moment, it may soften in the March 2026 quarter. This could happen because the fiscal push is expected to ease and exports may slow across global markets. For these reasons, HSBC be-lieves the RBI is likely to begin easing its policy rates this December.

India's GDP numbers have also surprised on the upside. Growth for July–September stood at 8.2 per cent, higher than the previous quarter's 7.8 per cent and above HSBC's own expectation of 7.5 per cent. GVA growth was 8.1 per cent, and nominal GDP rose 8.7 per cent.

HSBC said this strong momentum is supported by two key factors. First, manufac-turers increased production ahead of GST rate cuts announced on August 15 and applied on September 22. Second, lower-income states have recently started growing faster than higher-income ones, lifting national GDP because it reflects the combined output of all states. The report adds that India's growth has stayed firm despite the 50 per cent recip-rocal tariff imposed by the US on Indian exports since August.

UPI transactions see strong rise in November

NEW DELHI

UPI transactions in India continued their strong upward trend in November, re-flecting steady consumer spending and the growing trust in digital payments. Ac-cording to data from the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI), UPI rec-orded a 32 percent year-on-year rise in the number of transactions, reaching 20.47 billion for the month. The total transaction value also grew by 22 percent to Rs 26.32 lakh crore.

The average daily transaction amount stood at Rs 87,721 crore, while November saw 682 million daily transactions on average, slightly higher than October's 668 million.

Instant money transfers (IMPS) also showed healthy growth, with monthly trans-actions amounting to Rs 6.15 lakh crore—an increase of 10 percent compared to last year. IMPS transaction count touched 369 million, and average daily transfers reached Rs 20,506 crore.

In October, UPI had already recorded strong gains, with a 25 percent rise in transaction count and a 16 percent jump in value.

The OSHWC Code mandates hazard assessments, approval, uniform petroleum standards, risk-based inspections, audits & emergency systems

New labour codes strengthen safety for petroleum workers

NEW DELHI

The government has announced that the new labour codes — the Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, 2020 (OSHWC Code) and the Social Security Code, 2020 — will greatly improve safety measures and welfare support for workers in the petroleum sector. These reforms bring refineries, fuel depots, and other petroleum units under one national safety framework, making rules clearer and stronger.

Under the OSHWC Code, companies must carry out structured hazard identifica-tion and detailed risk assessments before beginning any hazardous operations. They must also secure government approval in advance. The code sets national standards for handling, storing, transporting, and disposing of petroleum materi-als, making operations safer and more uniform across the country. It also intro-duces risk-based inspections, regular safety audits, an emergency command framework, and digital compliance tools similar to those used by major global oil and gas firms.

Worker health protections have been strengthened as well. The code requires pre-employment, periodic, and post-exposure medical check-ups for all workers involved in hazardous petroleum tasks. Free annual health examinations are mandatory. In addition, only trained and certified workers may handle petroleum products or hazardous chemicals. Employers must maintain safety equipment, of-fer proper training, and follow an eight-hour shift limit to reduce fatigue, an es-sential safeguard for industries running around the clock.

The Social Security Code, 2020 expands Employees' State Insurance Corporation (ESIC) coverage to petroleum workplaces, ensuring access to medical care, injury compensation, disability and dependents' benefits, maternity support, and pro-tection from occupational diseases. Digital records make benefits easier to track and transfer.

The government says these codes mark a major shift from a reactive, compliance-heavy system to a modern, prevention-focused, technology-driven approach. The reforms aim to improve discipline, strengthen skills, enhance emergency readi-ness, simplify regulations, and build a safer environment for petroleum workers nationwide.

Mahindra reports strong 19% sales growth in November

NEW DELHI

Mahindra & Mahindra re-corded a solid 19% rise in overall sales for November, touching 92,670 units, including exports. SUV sales led the growth, with 56,336 units sold in the domestic market, up 22% from last year. Total SUV sales, includ-ing exports, reached 57,598 units. Commercial vehicle sales also grew 17% to 24,843 units. The company marked one year of its Electric Origin SUVs and launched the new XEV 9S. Three-wheeler sales rose 7%, while exports increased 5% to 2,923 units. Mahindra Last Mile Mobility also crossed a milestone by selling over 3 lakh electric commercial vehicles.

Export recovery set to boost agrochemical revenue

NEW DELHI

India's agrochemical industry is expected to see a 6–7 percent rise in revenue this fiscal year, driven mainly by a rebound in exports after two slow years, according to a new report by Crisil Ratings. The improvement comes as global demand re-covers and inventories return to normal levels, even as domestic sales remain weak due to an extended monsoon that affected kharif season buying.

Crisil said the industry could return to its long-term growth rate of 8–10 percent next year if exports maintain momentum and domestic demand strengthens. Stable raw material prices, steady realisations, and limited impact from US tariffs are expected to keep operating margins largely unchanged this year and next.

The report highlighted that over 65 percent of India's agrochemical exports go to Latin America, North America, and Europe. Latin America is growing modestly, Europe is seeing recovery after inventory correction, and the US market remains steady, with most Indian shipments exempt from tariffs.

According to Crisil Senior Director Anuj Sethi, global farm sentiment is improving, which may push export revenue up by 8–9 percent this fiscal. With Chinese sup-ply stabilising and inventory pressure easing, domestic and export prices are ex-pected to remain steady.

Pak faces rising pressure from Chinese loans

NEW DELHI

Pakistan is facing growing stress from its rising debt to China, as the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) now accounts for nearly $30 billion of the country's external loans. High interest rates and repayment in foreign currency have made the burden heavier, increasing the risks linked to delays, economic problems, and political uncertainty.

CPEC began with big hopes, but progress has been slow. Out of 90 planned projects, only 38 are finished, and important sites like Gwadar Port and its airport are still operating at a limited level. This gap between grand plans and actual re-sults has raised concerns about the future of the project.

Security and public perception remain major hurdles. In Balochistan, local groups are demanding a fairer approach that considers the needs of residents, not just large investors. Of the nine Special Economic Zones, only three show active de-velopment, while the rest remain stuck in planning. This reflects deeper institu-tional challenges and the need for stronger coordination.

Environmental pressure is also growing. Rising resource use and emissions have increased the need for better monitoring and sustainable practices, or the re-gion's ecosystems could face serious harm.

CPEC is evolving at a time when global alliances are shifting. While new partner-ships may help diversify investments, they also expose the risks of depending too heavily on a single major partner. The updated phase, known as CPEC 2.0, now focuses on industrial zones, agriculture, and mining. Launched in 2015 with $46 billion in promises, CPEC has changed from a massive transformation plan into a project adjusting to financial limits and governance challenges. Despite this, it remains strategically important, but it clearly requires flexible, careful management and balanced risk-sharing to move forward.

Odisha rising as India's strong clean energy hub

NEW DELHI

Odisha is quickly becoming one of India's most promising clean-energy destina-tions, supported by its natural advantages, forward-looking policies, and growing industrial demand, according to a new EY-Assocham report released on Monday. The state's strong solar, wind, and hydro potential, combined with a robust port ecosystem, positions it to play a major role in meeting India's 2030 clean-energy goals and long-term net-zero vision.

The report highlights that Odisha's ports, expanding industrial base, and plans for energy storage and green hydrogen give it a unique chance to attract investment. These strengths could help the state emerge as a green manufacturing hub for eastern India. Odisha's well-developed ports also create major opportunities for exporting green hydrogen and ammonia to global markets such as Japan, Korea, and the European Union.

Several leading international companies are already assessing green hydrogen and ammonia projects along the eastern coast, strengthening Odisha's position as a growing clean-energy export centre. According to EY India, the state's founda-tion for green industrialisation is powered by its port-based ecosystem at Paradeep, Dhamra, and Gopalpur, strong renewable energy potential, and support-ive state incentives. Odisha also has an impressive 34 GW pumped-storage poten-tial, which can help produce round-the-clock renewable energy and support grid stability.

The report projects that Odisha's peak electricity demand will reach 10,564 MW by FY 2033–34 due to industrial growth and rising consumption. To meet this demand, the state may need 26,237 MW of additional contracted capacity in the next decade, highlighting the need for careful planning and strong infrastructure. To manage these opportunities, the report recommends forming a dedicated State Energy Planning and Transformation Unit. This unit would focus on re-newable energy, storage, hydrogen production, ports, transmission, land man-agement, and finance.

EXPLORATION APPROVALS SIMPLIFIED

Govt eases process for coal exploration approvals

NEW DELHI

The Central government has introduced a simpler and faster system for approving exploration programmes and Geological Reports (GRs) for coal and lignite blocks. This move marks an important procedural change aimed at improving the ease of doing business in India's exploration sector and reducing unnecessary delays.

The Ministry of Coal reviewed the earlier method and created a more streamlined process for approving documents prepared by Accredited Prospecting Agencies (APAs).

These agencies are certified by QCI-NABET and must have their reports peer-reviewed by another accredited agency. Under the new rules, the approval of the committee set up in January 2022 is no longer required, which removes a major procedural layer that previously slowed down the system.

According to the ministry, the reform highlights the government's strong trust in private exploration agencies and their growing role in the sector. By allowing these private entities to use their technology, skills, and innovative approaches, the government hopes to make coal exploration faster, more efficient, and more transparent.

Officials said the new system will save at least three months in processing a Geo-logical Report. This faster approval will help coal block allottees begin operations sooner and finish important milestones on time. The change is expected to speed up exploration work, strengthen long-term resource security, and support sus-tainable use of coal and lignite reserves.

India's rising energy needs require quicker and more reliable exploration efforts. The Ministry of Coal continues to push reforms that encourage private participa-tion, boost transparency, and ensure the country remains prepared for future energy demands. The latest initiative reinforces the government's commitment to modernising the coal exploration ecosystem and supporting the broader vision of a developed and energy-secure Bharat.

ASIA'S DELUGE:
Monsoon Fury and the Path Forward

In the sweltering heat of late November 2025, as the annual monsoon season gripped South and Southeast Asia with unyielding force, the skies unleashed a tor-rent unlike any in recent memory. Torrential rains, swollen rivers, and cascading landslides transformed vibrant communities into scenes of unimaginable devasta-tion. From the bustling streets of Colombo in Sri Lanka to the misty highlands of Sumatra in Indonesia, and the coastal lowlands of southern Thailand, floodwaters surged with ferocious speed, claiming over 1,000 lives and displacing millions. This was no ordinary monsoon; it was a harbinger of a climate-altered future, where extreme weather events, intensified by human-induced warming, strike with greater ferocity and frequency. As rescue teams wade through knee-deep mud and families cling to rooftops awaiting helicopters, the question echoes across the region: How did we arrive here, and what must we do to endure what comes next?

The 2024-2025 floods, triggered by a rare convergence of tropical cyclones and prolonged monsoon downpours, stand as one of the deadliest natural disasters in Asia's recent history. In Indonesia alone, the national disaster agency reported 502 fatalities, with 508 still missing amid the rubble of collapsed homes and bur-ied villages. Sri Lanka, battered by Cyclone Ditwah, tallied 355 deaths and 366 unaccounted for, marking its worst calamity since the 2004 tsunami. Thailand's southern provinces, particularly Songkhla, bore witness to 170 lives lost, while Malaysia and Vietnam added dozens more to the grim ledger. Over 4 million peo-ple—nearly 3 million in Thailand and 1.1 million in Indonesia—faced evacuation, their homes submerged under waters that rose eight feet in mere hours. Hat Yai, Thailand's commercial hub, recorded 335 millimeters of rain in a single day, a del-uge unseen in 300 years, turning streets into raging rivers and isolating maternity wards with newborns inside.

The human cost extends far beyond the immediate horror, weaving a tapestry of survival laced with grief. In Sri Lanka's central hills, where landslides buried entire villages, rescuers uncovered an endangered Sumatran elephant entangled in de-bris—a poignant symbol of nature's indiscriminate wrath.

Rising Monsoon Extremes: Why South and Southeast Asia Are Seeing Record-Breaking Floods

At the heart of this catastrophe lies a climate system pushed to its breaking point. The monsoon, long a life-giving rhythm for Asia's agrarian heartlands, has mor-phed into a weapon of destruction. Typically spanning June to September, the 2024-2025 season extended its fury into November, fueled by a rare tropical storm in the Malacca Strait and Cyclone Ditwah over the Bay of Bengal.

In Hat Yai, rainfall exceeded 300-year norms, while Colombo's Kelani River basin saw over-flows that submerged 148,000 homes. Scientists attribute this escalation to hu-man-caused climate breakdown: warming oceans, supercharged by trapped greenhouse gases, inject storms with unprecedented energy. For every degree Celsius of global warming, the atmosphere holds 7% more moisture, translating to heavier downpours and flash floods that overwhelm even the most resilient land-scapes.

South and Southeast Asia, home to over 2 billion people, sit at the epicenter of this transformation. The East Asian Summer Monsoon, driving peak rains from May to September, now collides with erratic patterns like La Niña, which cools Pa-cific waters and intensifies trade winds, drawing more moisture inland.

In 2025, this interplay birthed Cyclone Senyar—a "rare" formation in the strait—dumping over 100 millimeters in 24 hours across Sumatra, Aceh, and West Sumatra. The result: flash floods that buried villages under meters of mud, landslides that claimed hundreds, and river breaches that isolated entire provinces. Vietnam's central coast, lashed by Typhoon Kalmaegi, echoed the chaos with 66 deaths and widespread evacuations.

Data paints a stark picture. Global models from the Coupled Model Intercompari-son Project predict that by 2100, extreme rainfall events in the region could surge by 20-30%, with coastal cities like Bangkok and Yangon facing prolonged inunda-tion. In India, though spared the worst this cycle, upstream Himalayan glacial melts—accelerated by 2°C regional warming—feed the Brahmaputra and Ganges, priming future monsoons for overflow. The 2025 floods, claiming over 900 lives across four nations, underscore a vicious cycle: deforestation in Sumatra's peat-lands reduces soil absorption, urban sprawl in Colombo's outskirts chokes drain-age, and overfished oceans weaken natural barriers like mangroves. As one me-teorologist noted, "The monsoon isn't changing; it's us, through fossil fuels and land grabs, that's rewriting its script."

This isn't mere weather—it's a pattern etched in data. Since 2000, extreme flood events in Southeast Asia have doubled, per the ASEAN Coordinating Centre for Humanitarian Assistance.

Economic Shockwaves: How Regional Floods Are Disrupting Global Supply Chains

The floods' fury extends to the arteries of global commerce, severing supply chains that underpin economies from Silicon Valley to European factories. South-east Asia, a linchpin in electronics, textiles, and commodities, grinds to a halt as ports flood and factories shutter. In Thailand's Hat Yai, a key manufacturing node, submersion of industrial estates halts production of automotive parts and gar-ments, delaying exports worth millions daily. Indonesia's Sumatra, vital for palm oil and rubber, sees plantations underwater, spiking global prices for these essen-tials used in everything from biofuels to tires.

The ripple effects are seismic. Vietnam's central floods, damaging $1.2 billion in infrastructure, disrupt semiconductor flows, echoing 2021's chip shortages that idled car plants worldwide. Malaysia's Perlis inundations strand 4,000 tourists and clog northern trade routes, while Sri Lanka's Colombo port—handling 7 million containers yearly—faces backlogs from Kelani overflows. Commodity markets tremble: palm oil futures jump 15% as Sumatran yields plummet, inflating food and cosmetic costs globally. Rubber from flooded Thai estates tightens tire sup-plies, pressuring automakers amid EV transitions.

Geopolitical tensions compound the chaos. Proposed U.S. tariffs—10-20% base-line, 60% on China—exacerbate rerouting woes, with Red Sea disruptions already inflating freight by 300%. Cyber vulnerabilities in sub-tier suppliers, hit harder by outages, invite attacks, as seen in 2024's electronics hacks.

Everstream Analytics warns flooding tops 2025 risks, with U.S. claims from Hurricane Helene nearing $7 billion. In Asia, facility shutdowns in flood-prone hubs like Shenzhen's ports—suspended by Typhoon Ragasa—cascade delays, while inland wildfires in Califor-nia's logistics corridors mirror the strain.

Infrastructure on the Brink: How Floods Exposed Weaknesses in Asian Urban Planning

Urban jungles, built on floodplains, crumbled under the deluge, exposing decades of shortsighted planning. Colombo's drainage, clogged by unchecked sprawl, turned streets into canals, submerging 80% of low-lying homes. Hat Yai's outdat-ed culverts, overwhelmed by 335mm rains, isolated hospitals and markets, stranding 30 newborns in a flooded maternity ward. In Indonesia's Padang, col-lapsed bridges severed Sumatra's north-south lifeline, delaying aid to 28,400 in shelters.

River management failures amplify woes: the Kelani's unmaintained embank-ments breached, flooding Kaduwela's outskirts. Malaysia's Kemena River, shallow from silt buildup, spilled into Sarawak, displacing 7,397. Urban concretization—paving 30% more green space in Bangkok since 2000—hastens runoff, turning choes into torrents. Landslides in Sikkim's Teesta basin, triggered by deforested slopes, echo Himachal's cloudburst scars.

Lessons demand reform: sponge city models in China absorb 70% more rainwater via permeable pavements and wetlands. India's Surat integrates embankments with real-time monitoring, reducing breaches 50%. Yet, funding gaps persist—$23.6 billion needed for Thailand's 2025 resilience alone.

Migration and Displacement: Floods Forcing Communities to Move Across Borders

Floods don't just drown homes—they uproot lives, propelling a tide of climate refugees across porous borders. In 2025, over 4 million displaced in Southeast Asia join a swelling exodus, with 1.3 million in Sri Lanka alone fleeing Cyclone Dit-wah's wrath. Low-lying Colombo suburbs emptied as 148,000 sought higher ground, many crossing into Tamil Nadu, India, straining informal networks. Indo-nesia's 300,000 evacuees from Sumatra's landslides trek to urban peripheries, overwhelming Jakarta's slums.

Cross-border flows intensify humanitarian strains. Malaysian Perlis shelters 18,700, including Indonesian day-laborers fleeing flooded rubber estates, while Thailand's 2 million displaced include Myanmar migrants from upstream Mekong breaches. In Vietnam, 250,000 evacuated from central floods eye Cambodian borders, echoing 2011's 500,000 displacements. Poorer families migrate farthest, women and children facing heightened risks of trafficking and exploitation in transit camps.

Long-term, this signals a migration crisis: by 2050, 200 million climate migrants globally, per UN estimates, with Asia's deltas ground zero.

Agriculture Under Water: Impact of Asian Floods on Global Food Security

Fields once golden with rice now lie drowned, a grim tableau of climate's assault on Asia's breadbasket. The 2025 floods ravaged 200,000 hectares of crops in Vi-etnam alone, slashing rice yields by up to 4.3% globally—the staple for half the world's population. In Thailand's Mekong Delta, submergence destroys jasmine rice paddies, threatening exports that feed 500 million. Indonesia's Sumatra palm oil groves, submerged under meters of water, face fungal rot, potentially hiking global prices 20% and disrupting biodiesel chains.

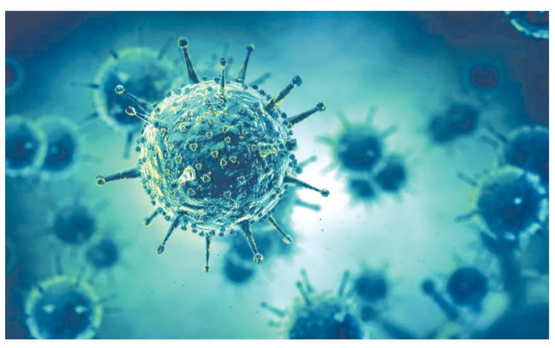
Rubber taps silent in flooded Malaysian estates signal tire shortages, while Sri Lanka's tea hills, buried in landslides, imperil the $1.3 billion industry that employs millions. Cassava and sugarcane in Vietnam's central belt, vital for animal feed and ethanol, rot in stagnant pools, exacerbating food inflation amid Ukraine's lingering grain curbs. The Mekong's saltwater intrusion, worsened by sea-level rise, saliniz-es delta soils, forcing farmers to abandon ancestral plots.

Global food security teeters. Asia produces 90% of the world's rice; a 18-million-ton annual loss from floods could spike prices 10-15%, hitting import-dependent Africa hardest. In India, though less flooded, upstream Brahmaputra overflows echo risks, with glacial melts priming mega-floods.

Global Responsibility: How International Action (or Inaction) Shapes Flood Re-covery Efforts

The world's indifference amplifies Asia's agony. COP29's $100 billion adaptation pledge lags, leaving $1.2 billion Vietnamese damages underfunded. U.S. tariffs disrupt reroutes, while China's Yarlung dam raises downstream fears. Yet, allianc-es forge paths: India's 12-tonne aid to Sri Lanka via Operation Sagar Bandhu aids 500,000.

Foreign aid—UK's PACT, AFD's AdaptAction—bolsters early warnings, but private innovation from Kenya's Ushahidi maps crises. Climate negotiations must priori-tize: tripling finance by 2035, as pledged. As global leaders convene, Asia's survi-vors implore: Inaction drowns us all; action lifts the tide.



Health After the Storm: Spread of Disease and the Strain on Medical Systems

As waters recede, a silent epidemic brews in the muck. Stagnant pools breed Ae-des mosquitoes, spiking dengue cases 200% post-flood in the Philippines. Lepto-spirosis, lurking in rodent-tainted floods, claims dozens in Sri Lanka's urban fringes, its fever-mimicking symptoms overwhelming clinics. In Thailand's south, chol-era surges from contaminated wells, while Vietnam's central deluge fosters meli-oidosis outbreaks.

Medical systems buckle: Indonesia's Aceh hospitals, flooded and understaffed, tri-age 58 injured amid power blackouts. Sri Lanka's 1.1 million affected strain Co-lombo's wards, with 191 missing complicating contact tracing. Co-infections—dengue-leptospirosis—complicate diagnoses, per regional health bulletins. Mar-ginalized groups—migrants in Malaysia's shelters—face barriers to care, amplify-ing transmission.

Maradona's Ex-Trainer Says LIONEL Messi Must 'Prioritise' 2026 WC

Ex-Maradona trainer urges Lionel Messi to leave MLS temporarily for World Cup readiness

BUENOS AIRES

Lionel Messi may be enjoying a stellar run with Inter Miami, but Fernando Signorini — Diego Maradona's former trainer — believes the Argentine captain must rethink his plans ahead of the 2026 FIFA World Cup. Signorini has urged Messi to "prioritise the World Cup" and consider stepping away temporarily from Major League Soccer, which he described as "a parody of football."

Messi recently helped Inter Miami crush New York City FC 5-1 in the Eastern Conference Final, providing an assist and guiding his team into the MLS Cup 2025. The 38-year-old also surpassed Ferenc Puskas for the most career assists in football history, reaching an extraordinary tally of 405.

However, Signorini warned that the MLS calendar — which offers fewer competitive matches leading into the World Cup — could leave Messi underprepared compared to players competing in Europe. Speaking to Super Deportivo Radio, he said, "Leo needs to prioritise the World Cup. He's caught up in this infernal record-breaking machine that I don't know the point of, because what he's doing now isn't football — it's a parody of football."

The veteran trainer suggested that Messi should take a break with his family and consider a short-term loan to a more competitive environment ahead of football's biggest tournament.

Messi, meanwhile, has maintained that his participation in the 2026 World Cup will depend on his physical condition. Speaking to SPORT, he said he does not want to be a "burden" and must "feel physically fit" before committing to Argentina's campaign. The MLS schedule, with a pre-season period and fewer matches before the tournament, will require him to assess his readiness "day by day."

Still, Messi admitted that the World Cup holds unmatched significance. "It's special… the biggest competition there is," he said. "I'm excited, but taking it one day at a time."

Mbappe Scores, but Madrid Slip as Barca Gain Edge

GIRONA

Real Madrid's title charge suffered another setback as they were held to a 1-1 draw by Girona, marking their third straight La Liga stalemate and allowing Barcelona to stay atop the table. Azzedine Ounahi struck just before half-time to give the hosts a surprise lead, before Kylian Mbappe levelled from the penalty spot to salvage a point for Madrid.

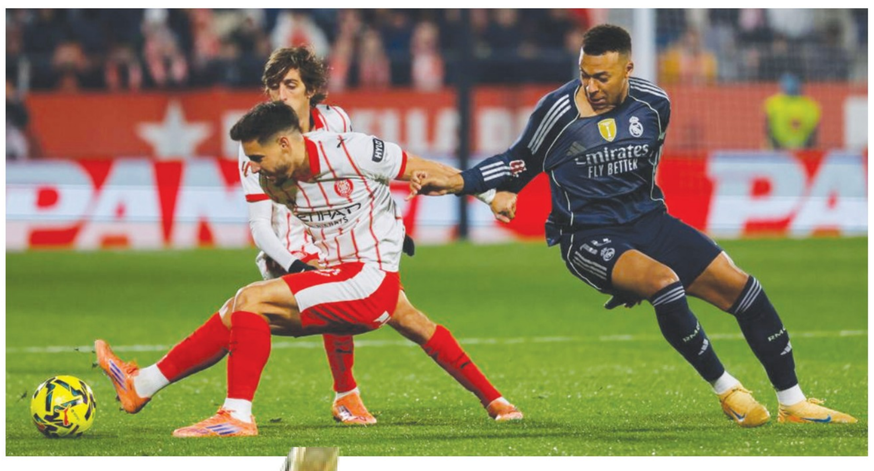
Real Madrid held by Girona as Barcelona gain crucial advantage in La Liga race

The draw came just hours after Barcelona defeated Alaves to move into first place. Madrid needed a win to reclaim the summit but now trail the reigning champions by one point. The result also intensifies pressure on coach Xabi Alonso, whose future has been the subject of growing speculation. "We are up there, it's all very even… we have to continue with the unity we have," Alonso said after the match.

Madrid travel next to Athletic Bilbao on Wednesday for a fourth consecutive away league fixture, a scheduling adjustment due to their participation in January's Spanish Super Cup.

The match itself was tense and scrappy, with both sides missing early chances. Mbappe had a goal disallowed for handball before Ounahi stunned Madrid with a crisp strike from the edge of the box. Girona, 18th and fighting relegation, pushed aggressively and nearly extended their lead, forcing a superb save from Thibaut Courtois. Madrid slowly regained momentum, and after Vinicius Jr. had a goal ruled out for offside, the Brazilian won a penalty when he was fouled by Hugo Rincon. Mbappe converted emphatically for his 14th league goal of the campaign. "Absolutely not the result we wanted… we need to change this dynamic," Mbappe wrote on Instagram.

Elsewhere, Villarreal stayed in the title hunt after Alberto Moleiro's stoppage-time winner sealed a dramatic 3-2 victory over Real Sociedad, while Real Betis defeated Sevilla 2-0 in a heated derby interrupted by crowd trouble.



M Chinnaswamy Stadium's IPL future hinges on government-mandated structural fitness clearance

Stadium Safety Review Puts IPL 2026 Matches at Chinnaswamy in Doubt

BENGALURU

The future of Indian Premier League (IPL) 2026 matches at Bengaluru's M. Chinnaswamy Stadium has become uncertain after the Karnataka government ordered a comprehensive structural safety clearance before granting permission to host games. The directive follows the fatal stampede earlier this year that killed 11 people and injured nearly 50 during a celebratory event for Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB).

The Public Works Department (PWD) has formally instructed the Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) to submit a detailed structural fitness report prepared by experts accredited by the National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (NABL). The government has stated that only after independent specialists verify the stadium's ability to safely accommodate large crowds will it consider allowing IPL fixtures in 2026.

Built on 17 acres of PWD-leased land in central Bengaluru, the Chinnaswamy Stadium has already faced significant repercussions following the June tragedy. The venue has not hosted a single match since the incident, and a subsequent inquiry led by Justice John Michael D'Cunha declared the stadium fundamentally unsafe for large gatherings. The commission's report warned of "unacceptable risks" related to crowd management, emergency response and traffic flow, concluding that the stadium was unfit for high-attendance events.

The fallout extended beyond the IPL. The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) revoked Bengaluru's hosting rights for the Women's ODI World Cup, shifting matches — including the final — to Navi Mumbai's DY Patil Stadium. The city was also excluded from the match list for the Men's T20 World Cup scheduled for February–March 2026.

For Royal Challengers Bengaluru, whose identity is deeply tied to the Chinnaswamy, the ruling casts fresh uncertainty. Long regarded as one of India's most vibrant cricketing venues, its return to IPL action will now depend entirely on passing stringent safety evaluations mandated by the state government.

Coca-Cola Partners with HI to Boost Jr Women's WC Preparations

NEW DELHI

Coca-Cola India, through its Anandana Foundation and the #SheTheDifference initiative, has strengthened its partnership with Hockey India to support the junior women's squad preparing for the 2025 FIH Women's Junior Hockey World Cup in Santiago, Chile.

The collaboration, now in its third year, focuses on providing international exposure, specialised coaching and holistic development programmes aimed at enhancing the readiness of emerging players. The support has included multiple high-performance camps in India, Amsterdam and Berlin, along with a rigorous five-match exposure tour to Australia where the squad gained valuable experience against top-tier opponents.

Anandana's backing also covers training equipment, performance tools, international travel and accommodation, and athlete welfare programmes — all designed to build technical depth, confidence and match temperament among young players.

SHANE WATSON on Legends Pro T20 League: "It Feels Like the IPL for Legends"

GOA

Australian cricketing icon Shane Watson is savouring his return to competitive cricket in the Legends Pro T20 League, describing it as "the IPL for legends" while appreciating its relaxed, sun-soaked vibe. Speaking ahead of his appearance, Watson said, "Once that spark is in you, it's hard for it to disappear. I still enjoy hitting the ball cleanly, I still want to test myself, and this league gives me the space to do all of that while actually having fun again."

One of the highlights for Watson is sharing the field with familiar faces from his career. "Being out there with guys like Harbhajan, Shikhar and Dale brings back a lot of memories," he said. "We've played against each other, spent time in the same dressing rooms, and travelled across the world together. Now we get to enjoy all of that without the intensity of points tables or titles. It's a different kind of special."

Watson also praised Goa as the ideal venue, noting its laid-back charm. "It reminds me of growing up in Australia, hitting balls on the beach, mates around you, and waves in the background. That carefree spirit really fits a league like this," he added.

For Watson, the league is more than a fun outing—it celebrates an era of cricket and its supporters. "This genuinely feels like the IPL for legends, big names, enthusiastic crowds and real cricket being played. The fans who watched us through our careers still turn up with incredible energy. The competitiveness is still there, and it's a nice way to honour what this whole generation brought to the sport," he said.

Looking ahead, Watson is optimistic the tournament will captivate fans.

LUCAS PAQUETA SLAMS FA FOR LACK OF SUPPORT AFTER RED CARD

NEW DELHI

West Ham United midfielder Lucas Paqueta publicly criticised the Football Association (FA) following his red card in the club's 2-0 defeat to Liverpool, saying the governing body failed to provide psychological support during a two-year spot-fixing investigation. Paqueta, recently cleared of all allegations, linked his on-pitch behaviour to the mental strain caused by the prolonged probe.

The Brazilian was sent off late in the match at London Stadium after receiving two yellow cards for dissent in quick succession. The incident drew widespread attention, media reports describing it as "ridiculous behaviour." Paqueta took to X (formerly Twitter) to explain that the FA's lack of support during the investigation had affected his mental health, which may have contributed to his conduct on the pitch.

"It's ridiculous to have your life and career affected for two years without any psychological support from the federation," Paqueta wrote. He added, "Perhaps this ridiculous behaviour is just a reflection of everything I've had to endure. I'm sorry if I'm not perfect."

Despite his criticism, Paqueta apologised for his actions in the match, stating, "This does not justify my expulsion and for that I apologise to the fans and my teammates!" West Ham coach Nuno Espirito Santo confirmed he will hold a private discussion with Paqueta to understand his reaction.

Paqueta was cleared on July 31 of four spot-fixing charges related to allegedly seeking bookings in matches against Leicester City, Aston Villa, Leeds United, and Bournemouth. The investigation spanned two years, during which he faced the possibility of a lifetime ban.

Praggnanandhaa Continues Golden Run at London Chess Classic Open

LONDON

Indian Grandmaster R Praggnanandhaa continued his impressive form at the London Chess Classic Open 2025, emerging as co-leader alongside Velimir Ivic with 5/6 points after six rounds. Praggnanandhaa drew his game against Hungary's GM Tamas Fodos Jr. in 21 moves before bouncing back to defeat IM Eytan Rozen of Israel, reclaiming a top spot on the leaderboard. The two co-leaders are set to face each other in the seventh round, which could prove decisive for the tournament's outcome.

Despite a slight rating loss, Praggnanandhaa maintained his position at World No. 7 in the December 2025 FIDE Rating list. Meanwhile, fellow Indian Arjun Erigaisi climbed to World No. 5 after gaining 6.4 Elo points at the FIDE World Cup 2025. World Champion D Gukesh slipped to World No. 10 following his early exit in the third round. Currently, only five Indian players feature among the global Top 30, highlighting the competitive challenges at the elite level.

Among Indian women, GM Humpy Koneru moved up to World No. 5 despite not playing any rated games in November, while GM Divya Deshmukh dropped to No. 12. IM Padmini Rout and IM Savitha Shri B remain the only two Indian women in the top ten to gain Elo points recently.

November proved difficult for many Indian players at the FIDE World Cup 2025. Arjun Erigaisi's strong form ended in a quarterfinal tiebreak loss to China's GM Wei Yi, while Pentala Harikrishna delivered a career-best performance before bowing out to GM Jose Eduardo Martinez Alcantara of Mexico.

Praggnanandhaa's continued success at the London Chess Classic reinforces his standing among the world's elite, underlining India's growing influence in global chess competitions.

Kohli's Future 'Not a Question', Says Kotak after India Win

BATTING COACH SITANSHU KOTAK DISMISSES SPECULATION ON VIRAT KOHLI'S ODI FUTURE FIRMLY

RANCHI

India batting coach Sitanshu Kotak brushed aside chatter around Virat Kohli's long-term ODI future, insisting the star batter remains central to the team's plans after his match-winning century in the first ODI against South Africa. India clinched a tense 17-run victory on Sunday, with Kohli producing his 52nd ODI hundred to set up the win. Kotak expressed frustration at the renewed debate over whether senior players such as Kohli and Rohit Sharma would feature in the 2027 ODI World Cup. He stressed that neither the squad nor the team management was thinking that far ahead. "I really don't know why we need to look at all this," he said. "He's batting so well. The way he's performing and the way his fitness is — there are no questions."

He emphasised that experience, clarity of roles and real-time learning matter far more than distant projections, underscoring Kohli's continued value. "He's just brilliant. As long as he keeps batting like this, there is no point talking about anything else," Kotak added.

Kohli's innings, built on responsibility and composure, once again underlined his stature in the format. Kotak confirmed that the minor back discomfort Kohli showed during the knock was nothing serious.

Kotak also highlighted the impact of having both Rohit and Kohli back in the XI after the Test series loss, saying their presence naturally lifts the dressing room. He noted that heavy dew made bowling extremely difficult in the second innings, explaining South Africa's surge in the chase.

He credited Harshit Rana's early strikes for tilting the game India's way in challenging conditions. "With a Kookaburra, swing lasts just 2–5 overs. He made it count," Kotak said.

Mental Strength Matters More Than Over-Preparation, Says Virat Kohli

RANCHI

Virat Kohli underlined the value of mental clarity over excessive practice after producing a commanding 135 in India's series-opening ODI win against South Africa. His 52nd ODI hundred not only anchored India's innings but also reaffirmed his relevance in the format he now exclusively plays, despite limited match time in recent months.

Kohli's century came amid discussions within the national selection committee about whether he should feature in the upcoming Vijay Hazare Trophy to sharpen his rhythm. Instead, the veteran batter responded in trademark fashion — with fluency, intensity and supreme awareness at the crease. "I have never been a believer of a lot of preparation. All my cricket has been mental," he said after the match. "As long as my fitness levels are up and I am feeling well, it's good." With more than 300 ODIs behind him, Kohli said experience helps him understand how much training he truly requires. "If you're in touch with the game and able to hit balls in practice, if you bat for an hour or two in the nets, you know you're good.

Kohli's Commitment Shines at 38, Says Dale Steyn

RANCHI

At 38, an age when many cricketers prefer to slow down, Virat Kohli's unwavering dedication to the sport continues to draw admiration. Former South Africa pacer Dale Steyn recently lauded Kohli's relentless commitment after the star batter hammered his 52nd ODI century against South Africa, showing that stepping away from T20Is and Tests has not affected his dominance in the ODI arena.

Steyn highlighted Kohli's exceptional mental fortitude, pointing out how his intent is visible in every aspect of his game—his energetic running between the wickets, sharp fielding efforts, and fearless dives. With more than 300 ODIs to his name, Kohli leans on vast experience and a strong belief in his well-honed methods. Steyn further noted that Kohli's focus, visualization techniques, and disciplined preparation keep him among the world's finest even as he moves deeper into his career. Kohli himself underlined the importance of mental readiness, saying that an hour or two of solid net practice is enough to assure him of his rhythm. At 38, his passion, fitness, and clarity of mind continue to power performances at the highest level.

Gaikwad at No. 4 Highlights India's Growing Selection Dilemma

MUMBAI

Ruturaj Gaikwad's unexpected move to No. 4 in Ranchi has opened a fresh chapter in India's evolving white-ball transition — one that reflects both opportunity and confusion within the current selection framework. The 28-year-old, known for his exceptional List A record and long-standing success as an opener, found himself in untested territory on Sunday, stepping into a role he has almost never played in his domestic career.

Gaikwad's shift was triggered by a vacancy created by Shreyas Iyer's injury, yet his selection for the spot was never publicly communicated. Officially, Tilak Varma, Rishabh Pant and Dhruv Jurel were listed as contenders. Gaikwad, picked as a reserve opener, wasn't expected to feature at all had captain Shubman Gill recovered from a neck spasm in time. Instead, he walked out at No. 4 — in MS Dhoni's backyard — symbolising a broader trend under head coach Gautam Gambhir: experimentation without continuity.

Recent series have been marked by frequent role shuffles, leaving players unsure of their standing. In the home Test defeat to South Africa, multiple batters rotated through No. 3. B. Sai Sudharsan — fresh off a career-best performance — was dropped for the first Test, only to return once the series slipped away. This inconsistency has begun affecting performance and eroding player confidence.

Jordan–NASCAR Showdown Reaches Court

CHARLOTTE

Michael Jordan's high-stakes legal fight against NASCAR moved into federal court on Monday, opening a jury trial that could dramatically alter the structure and governance of top-tier American stock-car racing. Jordan-owned 23XI Racing and Front Row Motorsports have accused NASCAR of operating as a monopoly, alleging anticompetitive control over charters, race tracks, regulations and revenue distribution.

The dispute began when the two teams refused to sign new charter agreements in late 2024, arguing the terms failed to address long-standing demands for permanent charters, a larger share of revenues and a meaningful voice in decision-making. NASCAR, founded 76 years ago by the France family, insists it has violated no antitrust laws and maintains that increased payouts in the 2025 agreement demonstrate fairness.

Pretrial discovery exposed damaging internal communication on both sides — from NASCAR executives mocking team owners and fans, to 23XI representatives expressing contempt for the France family.

ITALIAN TENNIS LEGEND PIETRANGELI DIES AT 92

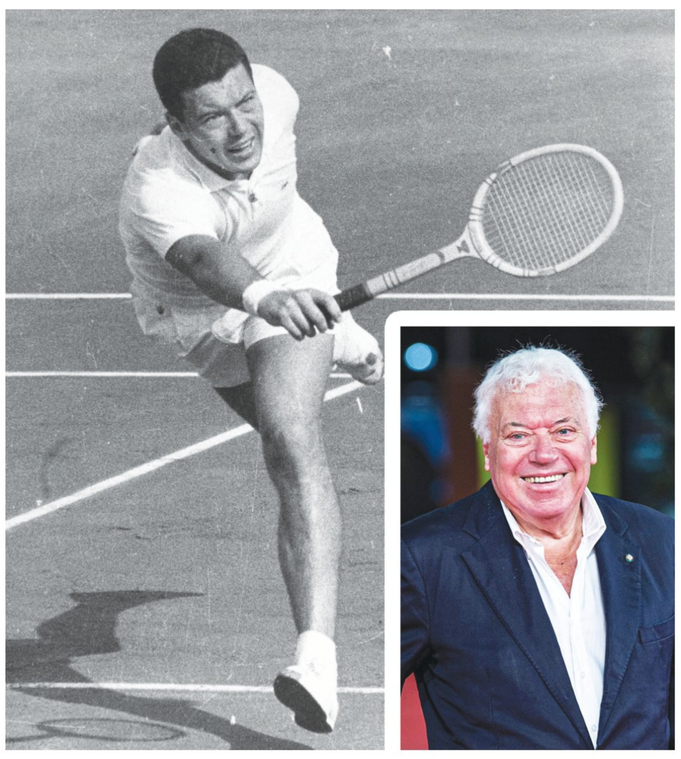
MILAN

Nicola Pietrangeli, one of Italy's greatest tennis pioneers and a two-time French Open champion, passed away on Monday at the age of 92, the Italian Tennis Federation (FITP) announced. Widely regarded as the country's finest player before the rise of Jannik Sinner, Pietrangeli remains the only Italian inducted into the World Tennis Hall of Fame.

Born in Tunis in 1933 to an Italian father and Russian mother, Pietrangeli became a trailblazer for Italian tennis through a career defined by elegance, athleticism and remarkable longevity. He captured 44 singles titles in total, headlined by his back-to-back Roland Garros triumphs in 1959 and 1960. He also finished runner-up in Paris twice, losing to Manuel Santana in 1961 and 1964, and reached the Wimbledon final in 1960, the same year as his second French Open crown.

Tributes poured in from across the tennis world. The Italian Open organisers, recalling a champion who won their event twice, said: "It is with deep sadness that we say goodbye to Nicola Pietrangeli, a true legend of Italian tennis... Ciao, Nicola."

Pietrangeli's legacy extended beyond his individual achievements. A cornerstone of Italy's Davis Cup history, he contested 164 matches for the national team and later captained Italy to its first Davis Cup title in 1976, further cementing his place as a foundational figure in the sport's growth in the country.



For decades, Pietrangeli stood as the benchmark of Italian tennis excellence—an emblem of the sport's early global expansion and a figure whose grace and achievements inspired generations. His death marks the end of an era for Italian and world tennis.

Resort Owner Rebuts Nepomniachtchi's Criticism after Chess WC Exit

GOA

A day after Russian Grandmaster Ian Nepomniachtchi lashed out at the organisers of the Chess World Cup 2025 in Goa, the owner of Resort Rio — the official players' hotel — has strongly refuted his claims, calling the criticism "emotional" and "unexpected." Nepomniachtchi, who crashed out in the second round after losing to India's Diptayan Ghosh, left the playing hall immediately and checked out of his hotel within an hour. He later slammed the venue as "sub-standard," citing poor rooms, food and service, as well as humidity, mosquitoes and jet lag, as factors behind his early elimination.

His remarks triggered a sharp response from Resort Rio owner Anup Shah, who told that he was "surprised" by the outburst. "People should not be commenting on things like this. Not Grandmasters reacting emotionally. Chess players are supposed to be rational, logical thinkers, and here we have people who complain about humidity," he said, adding that Goa's tropical conditions were hardly unexpected. "It's like going to Siberia and complaining about the cold."

Shah disputed Nepomniachtchi's claim of receiving only pineapples as part of his meals, insisting that the buffet offered a diverse menu designed for players from multiple countries. "We can't just please the Russians or the Iranians or the Turks. We have to create a menu that suits everyone," he said.

He also defended the nutritional value of the food provided. "Nepo talking about not getting calories through pineapples — I can prove him wrong.

Verstappen Keeps Title Fight Alive With Qatar GP Win

QATAR

Max Verstappen reignited the Formula 1 championship battle by winning the Qatar Grand Prix, ensuring that the title will be decided at next weekend's season finale in Abu Dhabi. The Red Bull driver, chasing a fifth consecutive world championship, held off McLaren's Oscar Piastri to claim his 70th career victory.

Championship leader Lando Norris, who would have secured his maiden F1 crown with a win in Lusail, finished fourth after a challenging evening that saw him lose crucial ground to both rivals. Piastri crossed the line second, keeping his title hopes alive despite slipping to third in the standings.

The trio has dominated the season with seven wins each, setting up one of the tightest championship showdowns in recent F1 history. Verstappen, who started the weekend 24 points behind Norris, capitalised on a strong performance and now sits just 12 points off the top. Piastri, meanwhile, trails Norris by 16 points heading into Abu Dhabi.

Verstappen was calm but jubilant on team radio after taking the chequered flag. "That's a very lovely race," he said. "Great job everyone."

Norris still has the chance to become the first British world champion since Lewis Hamilton secured his seventh title in 2020. However, the momentum has shifted, and the McLaren driver will need a decisive performance in the final round to hold off his challengers.

A visibly frustrated Piastri summed up the high-pressure moment with a short, pained reaction: "Speechless. I don't know any words."

With just one race left, the stage is set for a dramatic conclusion to a fiercely contested season.
